DEFENSE RING AROUND SETTLEMENT TIGHTENED AS BIG GUNS ARE HEARD

Roads Are Barricaded As Almost Continuous Fire Is Heard From Direction Of Kating And Nanziang; Another Heavy Influx Of Refugees From Huangtu And Liuho; Sound Of Guns Plainly Audible

With the sound of guns audible throughout Shanghai practically all day, defense forces of the Foreign Settlements were tightened up yesterday afternoon and every precaution taken to prevent disorder on the borders of the French Concession and the International Settlement.

The bombardment appeared to be from between Kating and Nanziang and was the heaviest yet heard in Shanghai, northwesterly breezes making it possible to hear booming of the big guns from the upper floors of buildings even in the dov town district. Along the Rubicon and on Hungjao road, the sound of the guns was plainly audible throughout the day and evening, the heavy booming of the field pieces coming as crescendoes for the almost continuous rat-tat-tat of machine guns.

That the attack was particularly heavy was emphasised by the brief intervals between firing. At seven o'clock in the evening and for a considerable period thereafter, the sounds of artillery fire were heard with almost punctual regularity at half-minute intervals by observers on Hungjao Road.

Despite the heavy firing, however, there were no signs of a rout of the Chekiang forces and the foreign defense organisations found themselves with little to do but wait and prepare.

NO DISORDER HERE

Considerable interest was manifested by Chinese both in and out of the Settlements, and particularly in the Western districts. Along the Rubicon and Hungjao Road, excited groups stood and listened to the cannon and machine guns and watched for the

500 Kiangsu Soldiers Meet Grim Death After Piercing Chekiang Line

Reserves At Nanziang Surround Invaders Who, Following Refusal To Surrender, Are All Shot Down; Airplanes Bomb Nanziang

The slaughter of five hundred Kiangsu soldiers surrounded after they had broken through the Chekiang line near Huangtu and the use of airplanes by the Kiangsu forces were features yesterday of the hottest day of fighting reported in that sector since the war began.

The fighting began in the morning and continued all day, with heavy covering bombardment by the Kiangsu artillery. Shells from heavier guns than any hitherto used on that front were sent over by the northern troops and they were reported to have moved two six inch pieces from Quinsan to reinforce their artillery in action.

The five hundred men, now dead, broke through the Chekiang line north of Huangtu about 6 o'clock yesterday morning. They followed along a creek to within about three li or one mile of Nanziang.

Meanwhile, the Chekiang front line troops had seen they were too weak in that sector to organise a pursuit and they let the five hundred go, devoting all their attention to a successful attempt to close the front line where it had been pierced. At Nanziang there was a hurried mustering of every man who could be scraped up from the town, railroad station and vicinity and little villages about. These troops, who had been back for a rest, were then pushed forward to surround the five hundred.

Surrounded, the two companies of Kiangsu men refused to surrender. They were shot down to the last man. Chekiang casualties were heavy in accomplishing this, but slight in comparison. Total Chekiang casualties through the day were several hundred in this narrow sector. More than a hundred wounded men were brought to Shanghai from Nanziang yesterday afternoon and evening and practically all of these were severely wounded, several men dying en route.

Kiangsu airplanes yesterday morning dropped four bombs near Nanziang and two near Huangtu station, but without any effect other than the slight wounding of one railway employe. In the afternoon they returned to scatter sheets of propaganda which fluttered down to the troops in the lines and behind.

These sheets stated that the Chekiang bolt was nearly shot and that the soldiers had now best look out for themselves. It was announced in them that those men of the Chekiang forces who gave up immediately would be received into the Kiangsu army and presented with $20 apiece.

Reinforcements totalling 750 men were sent up to Nanziang yesterday afternoon. Five hundred of these were from Sungkiang, the second Battalion, 13th Regiment of the 4th Division under General Zung Lo-San. Two hundred and fifty were Ho Feng-Lin's men from Lunghua.

ARMED WITH PISTOLS

Five hundred men from Ningpo, of the command of General Lu Yung-Hsiang, were sent to Liuho yesterday afternoon armed only with the Mauser pistols which can be converted into short carbines by affixing the wooden pistol holsters for use as gun butts. With them they took, however, a score of boxes believed to contain bombs.

Only a little more than a score of cases of ammunition were sent to Nanziang through the day.

Kiangsu Chief Pledges Earnest Cooperation In Protection Of Shanghai

Rigid Discipline Will Be Preserved Among His Troops If Chekiang Soldiers Respect Neutral Zone, Chi Tells China Press Correspondent

BY LANSING HOYT
Special Correspondent of THE CHINA PRESS with the Kiangsu Forces

General Headquarters, Quinsan, September 17.—An interview with Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan, Commander-in-Chief of the Kiangsu armies regarding his intentions in connection with the development of desperate fighting in the Shanghai area, should be of tremendous interest right now. With the idea in mind of obtaining some definite statements on this subject from the leader of the Kiangsu forces, I was enabled this afternoon to have a long talk with His Excellency, General Chi at his headquarters here in Quinsan and have been informed that this is the only official statement which he has given out since the beginning of the war.

The interview was in the form of a series of questions put to the General by myself through an interpreter and the General's answers thereto which I wrote down in his presence. The interview follows:

"Do your war plans as developing against the enemy in anyway endanger the safety of the foreign settlement of Shanghai?"

In reply to this General Chi said, "If Generals Lu and Ho retreat to a place other than Shanghai there can be no crisis and no danger of foreign complications. In this event, Kiangsu troops will automatically be responsible for order on the borders of Shanghai and I will see that it is maintained by iron discipline. If, however, Generals Lu and Ho retreat to the borders of the Shanghai neutral zone, and attempt to resist our forces, then the Consular Body should order them to evacuate their position within six hours. If hard pressed it would be possible that Chekiang artillery might purposely bombard Shanghai so that my forces would get the blame for it. This must be avoided for it would then be circulated that Kiangsu guns were bombarding Shanghai."

ASKS GUNS AS SPOILS

I then asked the General whether he would cooperate with the leaders of the foreign protective forces about Shanghai in case a critical situation arises due to the retreat of Chekiang forces on Shanghai. To this question, the Marshal replied to the effect that

LEAGUE SCHEME OF ARBITRATION ALMOST READY

All Signatories Undertake To Recognise Jurisdiction Of Court

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 18.—It transpires that the basis of the proposed pact, which the sub-committee is discussing, will be that all the signatories undertake to recognise the jurisdiction of the Court of International Justice and to submit all disputes, the settlement of which is not provided for under Articles 12, 13, and 15 of the Covenant, to the Council of the League of Nations, which will give its decisions by a majority vote; but the procedure in regard to arbitration is still to be settled, and possibly, in view of objections by one delegation, a separate body, instead of the Council of the League of Nations, may be established as a court of arbitration.

The question of partial agreements or of so-called regional agreements between various States apparently led to considerable discussion yesterday, but finally the French proposal was agreed upon, namely, that so long as the Covenant is not universal partial agreements shall continue to exist, though coming within the scope of the general pact of mutual assistance, provided that they are registered and published by the League of Nations.

This proposal is subject to modification.

AMERICAN DRY LAWS APPLIED IN PHILIPPINES

Canadian Pacific Ships Are Notified Of Ruling By Attorney-General

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Sept. 19.—What is believed to be an attempt to extend the American Prohibition Law to the Philippines has been made by the Washington authorities.

The Canadian Pacific Steamship Company have received a cable from the American Consul-General in Hongkong notifying them that the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution has been held applicable here by a ruling of the Attorney-General of the United States. The Empress of Russia arrived this morning without liquor.

It is understood that the Smith, Bell Company's London vessels will also be refused health papers by the American Consul if there is liquor on board for the Philippines.

LU OPTIMISTIC DESPITE COUP D'ETAT; CHEKIANG HOLDS HUANGTU AND LIUHO

Navy's Gunfire Causes Conflagration Which Destroyed Liuho's Business District Yesterday; Local Bodies Clamor For Armistice; Hangchow Wants Chekiang For Chekiangese

Yesterday's developments in the Kiangsu-Chekiang war situation:

Local bodies headed by the Chambers of Commerce and the Bankers' Association made an appeal to the warring chieftains for an armistice.

Local Chekiang residents met and formulated plans for the reconstruction of their province.

Hangchow long-distance telephone messages indicate that the merchants and educationalists of the provincial capital favor the adoption of a system of self-government and will resist further entry of northern troops.

A spectacular fire destroyed the business center of Liuho, while it was heavily bombarded by Kiangsu soldiers.

Huangtu is still in the hands of Chekiang.

The stationing of Japanese marines in alleged Chinese territory formed the subject of a protest lodged with the Bureau of Foreign Affairs by the Street Unions here.

Serious fighting is staged at Kating.

The resignation of Magistrate Shen Pao-chang of Shanghai city took effect yesterday.

KIANGSU PLANS MASS ATTACKS IN FINAL PUSH

Huge Forces Of Troops Are Mobilised For Fight On Eastern Front

BY LANSING HOYT
Special Correspondent of THE CHINA PRESS with the Kiangsu Forces

G. H. Q. Quinsan, Sept. 17, 5 p.m.—A drive of tremendous magnitude against the Chekiang force will undoubtedly take place on the eastern front within a week, maybe within two or three days.

A constant stream of troops, food, and munitions, field-guns and heavies has been heading towards a sector somewhere on the line. The exact position of this accumulation of reserves for a break through is not known, of course, but the place selected for the attack, which will, it is hoped, turn the Chekiang line, is virtually known to many besides the high command. When all roads and rivers lead to Rome it doesn't take a Marshal Foch to put two and two together. The freedom of the Kiangsu front has been given me with but very few strings tied to it, so it would not only be a breach of hospitality but it would also be downright disregard of neutrality for a foreigner to mention the sector where, if one believes in signs, the offensive is almost certain to develope.

Let it be said in all truth however that your correspondent this afternoon counted no less than six special troop trains loaded to

General Lu Yung-hsiang, who moved his headquarters from Hangchow to Shanghai on Thursday, personally assumed command of the forces at the Liuho and Huangtu sectors yesterday and established his office at the former Yamen of the Military Commission of Shanghai at Kaochangmiao. He is assisted in his work by General Chang Tsai-yang, ex-Civil Governor of Chekiang, General Fan Yu-lin, Chief of Staff; his son, Major-General Lu Hsiao-chia, Mr. Mei-su, ex-financial commissioner of Chekiang and General Ma Hung-li, commander of the Gendarmes.

Interviewed by newspapermen, General Lu, while bitter against the treachery of Pan Kuo-kan, commander of the first Chekiang division, in ousting him from Hangchow, reiterated his decision to make a firm stand against Chi Hsieh-yuan and expected to concentrate his forces in this district in order to make a drive for Quinsan.

Sophisticated in the events of the world war, he told the correspondents that Belgium was practically lost in the early days of the conflict but eventually emerged victorious to the glory of her leaders and her people. General Chen Yao-san, in command of the force at the Ishing sector, is expected to arrive in Shanghai today or tomorrow and will reinforce General Lu in his final efforts for victory. Some of his forces arrived in Shanghai late last night.

The report of the arrival of General Lu yesterday morning naturally gave cause for further wild rumors. Huangtu and Liuho were reported both lost early in the day, but these reports were emphatically denied by the Lunghua headquarters. In view of the fact that no correspondents were permitted at any of these points, absolute confirmation one way or the other was impossible.

That Chekiang is still holding Liuho, however, was confirmed by fire-fighters from the Chapei fire department who visited the little town yesterday. Gunfire from the Nanking navy ignited a can of kerosene in a rice shop 2 o'clock yesterday morning and set the entire business quarter afire. The booming of the naval guns could be heard in Shanghai in the afternoon with a favorable wind.

The fire lasted over 11 hours and destroyed over 100 houses. During the conflagration, Kiangsu troops charged, according to the Chapei Fire Brigade which went to the scene, and made fire-fighting practically impossible. Most of the firemen, retreated with their engines, one of which was struck by bullets and disabled. Wang Ping-yen, chief of the first section of the Chapei Fire Service was arrested by Chekiang sentinels as he withdrew from the scene of fire, but was later released after Lunghua had ordered his freedom by telephone.

Despite the heavy bombardment both by the land and naval forces of Kiangsu, the Chekiang garrisons held desperately to the town and successfully resisted the onslaught after the fire was extinguished at 3 o'clock, reported Lunghua.

In the Huangtu sector, according to information given out by Lunghua, the belligerents are now fighting at a place caled Mo-

Chekiang Holding Liuho; Flames Break Out After Attack By Kiangsu Navy

BY D. L. LEWIS

Zu Kai Chiao (five li from Liuho) 8.30 p.m.—All motor transportation is held up at Lootien 24 li from Liuho but we proceeded to Zu Kai Chiao on foot. A large fire broke out in Liuho Thursday evening at 9 p.m. due to shell fire from the Kiangsu naval forces, this conflagration taking place on the principal business street, Ta Kai. Three units of the Chapei Fire Brigade were rushed up to near Liuho early this morning but due to rifle firing were unable to reach Liuho. The fire was finally brought under control about 6 this evening. While the fire was in progress the proprietor of the piece goods hong Nyi Yih Da "distributed" to the soldiers in Liuho the contents of two large boxes of copper and silver coins for which he was unable to find transportation to Shanghai.

The road is still open all the way to Liuho. The Chekiang front line trenches at this point are now said to be only 4½ li away as against 6 li on Wednesday. The Chekiang line has been extended from Zu Kai Chiao to Pan Kai Chiao a distance of 12 li making the length of the Chekiang line on the Liuho sector 27 li. A new camp has been established at Pan Kioo Chiao with units of the 24th Mixed Fukien Brigade brought up from Shanghai during the early morning. It is claimed that on Wednesday several Chekiang troops were wounded by bombs dropped in the town of Liuho from Kiangsu areoplanes. No aeroplanes were seen in Liuho today.

MORE COOLIES SENT

The majority of the wounded from this section are sent by canal to Woosung. The dead are buried 30 in one grave. Several officers have been killed on this sector. Their remains have been shipped to Shanghai.

It is claimed that fresh batches of coolies impressed at Chapei are being sent to Liuho every day and placed in the front lines.

Heavy firing has been heard in Liuho all day from the direction of Kading.

At 2 p.m. today the right wing

Lunghwa, about six li north of the town. Heavy fighting took place throughout the day, according to Lunghua, but the morale of the Chekiang soldiery was not at all lowered.

Serious attacks were also conducted against Kating yesterday, according to refugees who arrived in Shanghai last night. But the Chekiang men are still holding the city.

The signing of an armistice between the warring factions in the Southeast was proposed yesterday in a telegram circulated by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, the Nantao Chamber of Commerce, the Shanghai Bankers' Association, the Native Bankers, Guild, The Anti-Kidnapping Society, the Chi Seng Benvolent Institute, the Lienyi Benevolent Society, the Zung Tsi Philanthropic Society, the Kwan Yi Tang, the Pu Yi Shan Chwang and the Pu Yu Tang.

A translation of the text of the telegram says:

"Since the outbreak of the war two weeks ago, the loss of lives and private and public properties have been great. The people in the Southeast suffered the ravages of war in a way which no word can depict and were subjected to atrocities only comparable to those at the time of the Taiping Rebellion.

"You who are invested with the power of militarism must have been moved at the existence of such a condition and must be as anxious as we are to see the termination of such a conflict.

"When the war was first started, the excuse for the clash was directed against Chekiang. But General Lu has since yesterday returned the administrative power of Chekiang to the Chekiang people. He has issued a circular telegram giving his decision. Then the object of this war has already been accomplished and an armistice should at once be declared in order to formulate plans for the reconstruction of the province at a parley when the many phases of the question may be deliberated upon.

"Check your advance and shorten the period of warfare at this opportune time so that the peace-loving people in the Southeast may no longer suffer the atrocities of war".

In a similar telegram, the organisations asked Generals Lu Yung-hsiang and Ho Feng-ling to refrain from further military operations in the Shanghai-Woosung district.

The Chinese General Chamber of Commerce has called a meeting of the representatives of the various local bodies to be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Chamber to discuss the question of local peace.

The Chinese Red Cross Society yesterday sent an appeal to Premier W. W. Yen, urging an early conclusion of the war and asking for funds for the maintenance of the society, whose financial resources have been exhausted on account of the outbreak of the war.

Chekiang residents in Shanghai met at the Kaochongmiao headquarters yesterday and passed the following resolutions:

1. Whereas the Province of Chekiang had already declared itself to be in favor of self-government and its Provincial Constitution was promulgated and accepted by the people in 1920, it is resolved that the said constitution be put into operation temporarily. Articles inapplicable to local conditions shall be amended by the Provincial Self-government Assembly.

2. The Civil Governor of the Province shall be elected by the accredited representatives of the recognised public bodies and shall maintain the status quo of the province.

3. A military commission to consist of seven Chekiang men with military education shall be elected to formulate plans to organise a Provincial Defense Corps to ward off outside aggression and preserve the province of Chekiang as a political entity.

More than 50 prominent residents attended the meeting. A circular telegram announcing the decision of the meeting was broadcasted.

Magistrate Shen Pao-chang of Shanghai City, who has been serving on General Ho Feng-lin's war council, formally resigned the mayorship yesterday and will now devote his entire time to military work. He was succeeded by Colonel Hsiung Li, deputy chief of the Shanghai Constabulary. Shen becomes Chief confidential Secretary of the War Council and will be stationed in Lunghua during all office hours.

Telephones messages received at Shanghai from Hangchow merchants and educationalists showed that the local organisations in the Chekiang capital resented the entry of the forces of Sun Chuan-fang and the action of Pan Kuo-kan in inviting northern forces into the province, which, they contended, would increase the taxation on the people. A movement is now on foot in Hangchow to cooperate with the Shanghai leaders to put the provincial constitution into operation. The cry of "Chekiang for Chekiangese" is prevalent.

In a letter addressed to Mr. Hsu Yuan, commissioner of Foreign Affairs, the Shanghai Street Unions yesterday pointed out the alleged encroachment upon sovereign rights by the stationing of Japanese marines in the North Szechuen Road district. The message alleged that approximately a battalion of Japanese was stationed near the Szechuen Guild in Chapei and Japanese marines have been seen in various parts of Chinese territory since the 12th inst.

The seriousness of the fighting on all fronts was indicated by the record number of wounded brought in yesterday from the various sectors. Ninty-three were conveyed to Shanghai alone. Fifty-four came from the Huangtu front, 17 from Liuho, 13 from Hangchow and the others from Kating, Tachong and other places.

Of these, more than 40 required major operations and since they all arrived in Shanghai after one o'clock in the afternoon, a number of them had to be sent to the St. Mary's Hospital. Three sets of doctors and nurses operated upon the wounded till early this morning at the Red Cross General Hospital.

The Central Committee of the Chinese Red Cross acknowledges with thanks the receipt of a large package of medicine from the China, Export, Import and Bank Company, 9 Kiangse Road: $100 from Ault and Wiborg and $5 from Miss M. J. Rodgers.

SOVIET TREATY IS FAKE, SAYS VISCOUNT GREY

Makes Plain Stand Of Liberall Party In Speech At Edinburgh

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 18.—Viscount Grey, speaking at Edinburgh today, voiced the official Liberal attitude towards the Anglo-Russian Treaty. He denounced it as a fake and a great blot, a great mistake of British foreign policy. The House of Commons should accept no responsibility for the Treaty.

Defense Ring Around Settlement Tightened As Big Guns Are Heard

very occasional flashes of fire which could be made out on the horizon as the field pieces were shot. The heavy firing, combined with circulation of the news of the coming of General Lu Yung-hsiang to Shanghai, resulted in another heavy influx of refugees, but there was no disorder.

Evidence of the tightening up in the Settlement defense forces was seen in the activity on the foreign warships in port and in the barricading with barbed wire and sandbags of several strategic roads into the Settlement. A sandbag barricade was erected across Hungjao Road by French naval forces and the Stone Bridge leading from Chapei was likewise closed to traffic at nightfall.

A tour of the outskirts of the Settlement yesterday evening revealed a profusion of foreign flags on Chinese establishments the British emblem apparently predominating. In Chapei, near the [illegible] North Station, several shops flew the British flag, several others the American flag, and a few houses and shops the Portuguese flag. Extraordinarily large crowds milled around in the streets, and there were numerous signs of the influx of refugees, but beyond that nothing.

WOUNDED AND REFUGEES

Wounded and refugees poured into the Shanghai North station. During the late afternoon one train from Sungkiang brought several hundred refugees, who declared that they had left Sungkiang after a force of 800 Chekiang soldiers had marched in during the morning. There had been no disorder in Sungkiang, they said, but the atmosphere was tense with excitement because of the arrival of the soldiers and fear that Sungkiang might become part of the war zone.

The wounded were all from Nanziang, and reported heavy fighting in that sector. Many pitiable cases were to be observed. One Chekiang soldier, shot through the breast, had been strapped to what had once been a door. He was dead when he arrived at the station.

A trip some distance out the Liuho Road, revealed scattered groups of refugees, some of whom had come in from Liuho and others from Nanziang and were awaiting transportation into Shanghai. According to farmers in the vicinity, no firing had been heard from the direction of Liuho during the day, the sound of guns plainly audible, being they said, from the vicinity of Kating and Nanziang. One man who claimed to have come from Nanziang yesterday morning reported that the Kiangsu forces were within three li of Nanziang.

More refugees from Nanziang and Huangtu were encountered on the Rubicon Road and confirmed the story of the heavy Kiangsu drive between Kating and Huangtu. Huangtu, they claimed, had fallen to Kiangsu, but no confirmation could be obtained for this.

The British naval guards kept a close watch on motor cars entering the Settlement from the Rubicon Road. No cars were permitted to enter the French Concession from Hungjao Road after nightfall, sandbags having been placed across the road to bolster up the barbed wire barricades.

Other precautionary measures were taken by the authorities in the French Concession. Heavy guards were maintained along Siccawei Creek.

As a precautionary measure against surprise, the French authorities have removed the planks from the bridges connecting the French Concession with Chinese territory across Siccawei Creek. Visitors to the Lunghwa area last night were forced to leave their cars on the French side of the creek and walk to the Chekiang headquarters at Lunghwa.

An unconfirmed report said that a French naval guard had encountered a party of eight Chekiang soldiers on the French side of the Creek early in the afternoon. There was a minor dispute, but no shots were fired and the soldiers were finally put across the border.

Two American destroyers were sent to Woosung to watch developments there, and several of the warcraft in the river kept up steam during the day and last night so as to be prepared for any eventualities. Sailors from the various ships who had been granted shore leave during the day were recalled in the afternoon and all shore leave was cancelled.

The same preparations as prevailed Thursday night were made by the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, the full strength of the Corps being held in readiness.

Three hundred children of the Door of Hope school at Kiangwan came to Shanghai yesterday in charge of their teachers because of fears roused by the distinct sound of the firing. They were housed at the Elgin Road Cotton Yarn Guild.

POISONING IS CHARGE MADE IN MIXED COURT

Man Alleged To Have Given Another Poisoned Wine

A poisoning case came up in the Mixed Court yesterday, Wong Zung-nyien, an elderly coolie, being charged with administering poison to Soong Voong-ling, a ricsha foreman, on September 17. According to the charge, Wong went to Soong's house and told him that a few friends were waiting for him in a lodging house, and that he would accompany him. When they arrived, the men Soong met there started talking about a case in which a handcart contractor was prosecuting two other men. They wanted him to put several rounds of ammunition in the house of the contractor, which Soong refused to do. Conversation continued, and he was offered a glass of wine, which he drank.

After drinking the stuff Soong became deathly sick, but managed to get out of the place and home, and later to a hospital, where a stomach pump improved matters somewhat. The contents of his stomach were taken for analysis. Wong appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday before Mr. Whitamore, British Assessor, and Magistrate Li. Detective-Sergeant Knight outlined the case, and told of the arrest of the accused on the morning of Septemebr 18 on Urga Road. The complainant was still in hospital, but was recovering.

The sergeant asked the Court for a remand for one week, so that the result of the analysis could be known. The Court ordered a remand accordingly.

TWO YEARS' JAIL FOR P. AND O. BANK CLERK HERE

Charges Of $3,200 Larceny And Making Threats By Letter

A clerk employed by the P. and O. Bank yesterday was sentenced in the Mixed Court to two years' imprisonment for the larceny of several thousand dollars from the Bank. The man took a cash box containing $3,200 from the safe, and put a threatening letter in its place in order to frighten off pursuit.

Mr. Zee Nyong-young, compradore of the Bank, appeared as complainant. He had received a number of threatening letters during this and last year, and armed guards had been placed near his house, while he and his son had been granted permission to carry arms. He did not accuse the present defendant, however, of any letter except the one he left in the safe.

The defendant, Zee Dzoong-ngoh, who is a relative of the compradore, stated on examination that he had actually robbed the safe and left the letter in the safe, but that two other men were involved, named Wong and Sung, Wong having written the letter and given him the keys of the safe, and Sung having taken the mongy.

Mr. Zee Nyong-yoong, the compradore, stated on the stand that on September 7 it was reported to him that a cash box had been found in the alleyway at the back of the Bank, but that the safe in the office was intact. Examination, however, showed $4,700 to be missing, and a letter was found inside. The complainant had been receiving threatening letters for the last tyo years but did not think the accused had anything to do with them.

The Court sentenced the defendant to two years imprisonment, as mentioned above.

Facts and Figures

DURING the first three months of 1924 the New York Life Insurance Company paid 2739 death claims. Of these policyholders 126 died in the first year of insurance, 136 in the second year, 463 between three and five years after insuring, 494 between five and ten years after insuring, 707 between ten and twenty years after insuring and 813 after twenty years of insurance.

Twenty years ago no one knew which of these 2739 people would die first. That uncertain but sure event lies at the very heart of the practical problem of living. It makes life insurance necessary.

ACTION AGAINST FINANCE CORP'N IS DISMISSED

U. S. Court Rejects Petition From Martel For Receivership

In the United States Court for China here yesterday, before Judge Milton D. Purdy, the action was dismissed in which M. Louis Martel, a prominent French business man, filed a petition for the appointment of a receiver for the International Finance and Exchange Company, Inc. Yesterday's decision was in response to a motion for dismissal made by Messrs. Rodger and Husar, attorneys with Messrs. Schuhl and Schoenfeld for the defendant company.

The original petition was filed in the U. S. Court at Tientsin, and was dated July 14, 1924. It alleged misappropriation and mismanagement by Messrs. Edwin W. Mills, John Francis Manning, and other directors of the Company. The plaintiff said that shortly after the organisation of the G. $10,000,000 Corporation, of which he and the two Americans were the original directors and shareholders, in 1921, he had succeeded Mr. Manning as treasurer, until receipt of a letter dated February 18, 1924, stating that as Mr Martel had failed to render proper accounts the board of directors had appointed a Japanese in his place. Mr. Martel alleged that this statement was false, as it was impossible for him to make up a complete account because sums paid in by various shareholders were not turned in to the Company by Mr. Mills, or even the figures reported.

Mr. Martel further alleged that in September 1923 he and the other directors had given Mr. Mills a signed power of attorney to go to Japan, and among other things to arrange the transfer to the China office of about Yen 900,000, but on his return made no detailed report. The plaintiff alleged that the money was converted to their own personal ends by Mr. Mills and the Japanese directors, and that he had learned in January 1924 of a draft for Yen 175,000 placed to the credit of Messrs. Manning and Mills by the Kobe branch of the I. B. C. When approached by the plaintiff Mr. Mills denied that the money belonged to the Corporation, and later stated that the Japanese directors had lent the money to Manning and Mills. The latter had paid out large sums of money in Peking, and up to the middle of June spent about one-half of the Yen 175,000 for private purposes. Another fund of Yen 350,000 had also been transferred from Japan, and went into the Japanese directors' hands.

The plaintiff further stated that in addition to his interest in the Corporation as a shareholder and a former offical, he had a claim totalling $48,000, and that through Mills and Manning the Corporation had threatened to demand redemption of his shares at one yen per share, one-fifth of their face value. He strongly denounced the misconduct of the parties named as endangering the interests of shareholders, and stated further that a representative of a large number of Japanese shareholders would also shortly take action in the U. S. Court for China. He said that the only business done by Manning and Mills with the Corporation's funds was selling shares at par and buying them back at much-reduced prices, and purchasing a building which was afterwards mortgaged.

MOTION FOR DISMISSAL

In Court yesterday the defendants based their motion for dismissal of the plaintiff's bill on various grounds, the first being that the plaintiff had no legal capacity to demand the appointment of a receiver inasmuch as he was not an officer, director, shareholder, or creditor of the Corporation; also, that if the plaintiff had any claim against the Corporation he had an adequate remedy at law; further, that the bill failed to set forth with particularity the efforts of the plaintiff to secure such action as he desired on the part of the managing directors or trustees; that the allegations of the bill were insufficient in fact, and too general, vague and uncertain, to constitute a valid cause of action or to justify the plea for the appointment of a receiver; that the complainant had no right to prosecute this case without first commencing any of the particular actions required by law, and that there was no proper or sufficient statement that the plaintiff's interests in the defendant corporation would be lost or impaired by reason of the grounds alleged, or which would warrant the appointment of a receiver.

Other points, alleging the statements made in the bill to be false, were objected to by Dr. Fox, counsel for the plaintiff, on the grounds that for the purpose of this motion the statements were to be taken as true, and that a motion for dismissal would have to be based upon shortcoming evident on the face of the bill. The Court sustained the objection.

APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVER

Mr. Rodger, for the motion to dismiss, read the law on the conditions under which application could be made for a receivership. He submitted that the Court did not assume the management of a solvent going concern upon an application such as that presented, and quoted decisions to that effect, and furthermore to the effect that individual shareholders could not individually demand a receivership on account of mismanagement, or even fraud, on the part of officials or directors.

Dr. Fox stated, quoting decisions, that a receivership was called for by action on the part of officials causing great and irreparable loss to shareholders and threatening to make the corporation insolvent. He also quoted that if agents of the corporation were themselves guilty of wrong against the Corporation by fraudulent management, etc., a court of equity would protect the injured shareholders. Misconduct was not ordinarily sufficient reason for the appointment of a receiver, but where it was so gross as to result in serious injury or loss to shareholders this may be done. In the case of officials who are running a concern into insolvency a receiver should be appointed. A temporary receiver may be appointed where a corporation is entirely solvent if the officials by their misconduct endanger the company. In the present case, counsel continued, the matter was still more important in view of the privileges the company gained through being registered with the U. S. Court and subject to its jurisdiction, which it had used as a distinct business asset, and the Court was still more empowered to assume control over the Company in case of need.

Judge Purdy suggested that both sides were agreed that a shareholder would have the right to proceed against officials and directors in a case where they were guilty of mismanaging affairs, and that such a suit was ancillary to the final relief that might be gotten. The Court felt that the matter should certainly be investigated, but doubted if the motion had been made in the right way, and whether the Court could reach out its hands and take over control of a company on account of these allegations. This was the real crux of the question. The bill also, especially in connection with the statement of Mr. Mills' collecting Yen 900,000 from Japanese shareholders, and the funds being used by him and Japanese directors and treasurers for their personal ends, was set forth without full details or particulars. The case was not set forth in proper form, it lacked details of names, dates, etc., and the Court would have to accept the motion to dismiss. The petition was therefore dismissed, but without prejudice.

Chi Pledges To Protect Shanghai

if the Chekiang generals retreated beyond the borders of the neutral zone and entered the Settlements, the Consular Body would be expected to disarm them forthwith and the Kiangsu troops would not attempt to force a pursuit. "In all fairness to my forces," said General Chi, "all guns, small arms, and munitions in the possession of the Chekiang forces should be left at the border of the foreign Settlements as legitimate spoils of war captured by the Kiangsu forces."

"If the Shanghai arsenal and the Woosung forts were dismantled and in future, the billeting of Chekiang troops in or near Shanghai prohibited, would this be a basis for a truce to which you could adhere for a time in order that other articles of peace might be discussed?" was my next question.

"The Shanghai arsenal, Woosung forts and gunboats are held by Generals Lu and Ho independent of the Central Government at Peking," he replied. "If they do not resist us—because we are fighting for the union of our country—we would have to dispose of them in a peaceful way satisfactory to China as a whole. If they do resist us we will have to take drastic steps, without however, under any circumstances affecting the interests of our foreign friends."

SEEKS REUNIFICATION

In an interview which I had immediately afterward with Mr. K. W. Mau, Counsellor for Foreign Affairs at the Field Headquarters I was told rather informally that the Commander-in-Chief of the Kiangsu forces has extended the hand of friendship to all foreigners who believe in the future of China as a unified nation. His sole object at this time is the reunification of his country in collaboration with President Tsao Kun and Marshal Wu Pei-fu. In order to instill a spirit of national pride into the people as well as to help the morale of his troops, he has in his armies, soldiers from every province with the exception of those provinces under the control of the disrupters of unity, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, General Lu and the Manchurian War-lord, General Chang Tso-lin. General Chi has indicated in his interview that he feels himself to be in the same position as the leaders in the North in the United States during the American Civil War. It may take great force to impress this spirit of union on the leaders of the rebel forces, but he believes that very soon the people in the non-cooperating provinces will see the light and renounce their present rulers.

Marshal Chi is a man of about 40 years of age. He fought in Kiangsi and Szechuen under his predecessor at Nanking, the late General Li Shun. He was born at the village of Niugho in Chihli Province where his elder brother still carries on the peaceful traditions of the family. His Excellency has sent his younger brother and two nephews to America to attend the University of California where they are studying the arts of peace, not war. He hopes that after him no member of the Chi family will have to take up arms to preserve the unity of China. Unity must be preserved now or never for without it China will fall in the long run.

LEARNED IN CHINESE

While Marshal Chi reads no English he is a Chinese B. A. and studies the lives of men of other countries in translated editions. The Governor of Kiangsu is not overbearing; he rarely wears his uniform at the General Headquarters and conducts his campaign by means of constant reports from his generals by telephone.

This brief sketch of General Chi may be quite opportune for there is every indication on this side of the line that the whole might of Kiangsu and its allies will be thrown against Chekiang in short order. The recent rains and the diversion at Ishing which has just been successfully met have held up matters somewhat. Now, however, with the systematic establishment of lines of supply and transport and a considerable concentration of reserves, an offensive will be launched that should prove very effective against the enemy.

BRITISH COURT AGAIN DEPORTS SIKH FROM HERE

Harbaks Singh, Charged With Sedition, To Return To India

Harbaks Singh, the Sikh who was sentenced in the British Police Court last April to two months' hard labor for the publication of a seditious pamphlet, was yesterday sentenced to deportation by the Higher Court, Mr. G. W. Myers sitting as assistant judge.

It will be remembered that the arrest of Harbaks last April was the occasion for a big demonstration of Sikhs here in sympathy with him. At that time Harbaks said he refused to recognise or respect a British Court here, which was not entitled to decide matters for him, and much of the time refused to speak at all.

At the time of sentence Harbaks was required to find two sureties of $250 each, with the option of deportation subject to the Higher Court. He declined yesterday to find the sureties, and the order of deportation was confirmed.

In all, this Indian propagandist has served five months' imprisonment here.

Pacific Mail Coy. Have New Schedule For Their Vessels

The Pacific Mail S.S. Company announce a new schedule for their Trans-Pacific ships which will allow of much greater time in Shanghai homeward bound.

Commencing with the President. Cleveland on her next voyage from San Francisco, steamers of the fleet will leave that port every alternate Saturday noon instead of Tuesdays at 1 p.m. This will bring the ships Friday morning instead of Tuesday morning as at present and into Shanghai outward bound on will leave here for Hongkong and Manila Saturday afternoon instead of Wednesday.

Homeward bound, the ships will arrive at Shanghai on Monday morning instead of Friday afternoon, leaving here Wednesday afternoon instead of Saturday afternoon, as at present.

At Hongkong, outward bound ships will arrive Tuesday morning and leave Wednesday afternoon, which will give ample time at that port either for business or pleasure for Manila passengers. While at Honolulu, the ships, both ways, will arrive at daylight and sail at dark the same day, which will give passengers plenty of leisure for a trip around the island and also a swim Waikiki Beach.

The first steamer under the new schedule will be the President Cleveland, arriving at Shanghai November 21, instead of November 18 and homeward bound, arriving at Shanghai December 10 instead of December 5 and December 6 under present schedule.

The story is based on a 2,000-year-old legend of China, and the lesson it teaches is that we miss a lot of this world's wickedness through being blind. Blind, the world is a good place to live in, but with sight regained we see evil all round.

Attention has been drawn to the profiteering in Chinese hotels at the present crisis, and the discomfort and over-crowded conditions in which the majority of refugees from the war zone are living in Shanghai. That there is need for safe and comfortable shelter for refugees at a reasonable price is evident. To help in meeting this the Chinese Y.W.C.A. has opened an emergency hostel at 37 Kinchow Road (Phone E. 161), and will keep it open as long as there seems to be need for it. About a hundred persons can be comfortably accommodated here; and in a real emergency a couple of hundred could be received. Single women or families will be received, and the charges for board and room will remain the same as the pre-war prices in the Y.W.C.A. Hostel, unless food-prices rise very much higher. Full particulars can be obtained at the Chinese Y.W.C.A. 61 Range Road (Phone N. 721).

Chekiang Holding Liuho, Fire After Kiangsu Attack

of the Kiangsu forces attacked the Chekiang lines but Chekiang counter-attacked and drove the Kiangsu forces back with heavy losses. The Kiangsu forces had crossed a large canal originally in boats but in their disordered retirement many Kiangsu soldiers were drowned. In this attack the 6th Kiangsu Brigade, Tuchun Chi's crack troops were engaged but Col. Chang's battalion of the 24th Mixed Fukien Brigade repulsed them with heavy losses.

The Chekiang soldiers are all well supplied with money and the troops on the front lines are now being given a two-day period of rest behind the lines.

The use of foreign flags on motor cars continues—today a passenger car was seen loaded with officers and their women folk near Tah Zung proceeding to Shanghai decorated with two huge foreign emblems.

It is said that Nanziang was visited today by four Kiangsu planes but that about the only real damage done was to break the glass in the railway station.

STONE BRIDGE CLOSED

The Stone Bridge has been closed to traffic by the authorities of the International Settlement, one has to now enter the Settlement via the Thibet Road Bridge.

Large gangs of coolies are working on the road up to within five li of Liuho and the road is in excellent condition. No hits as yet have been made by the Kiangsu forces.

No firing was heard in the direction of Liuho, and there is absolutely no indication of any kind to lead one to believe that Chekiang have been compelled to retire. The Chekiang forces still retain possession of Liuho but Kiangsu is gradually forcing them to extend their line a considerable distance on this front no doubt with the intention of breaking through and cutting off communication by motor road with Shanghai.

Food seems to be the all important commodity on the Liuho road today, several trucks loaded with bread, canned goods, etc. were passed but very little traffic was noticed in the way of bringing up ammunition, etc.

Heavy Casualties In Moslem Riots

the guards with soldiers. This means a mobile reserve of 6,000 bayonets at least. Also during last night and the previous night, other trains such as these dumped their human cargo out at Quinsan and munitions of all sorts have been streaming towards the spot behind the line where the mobilisation is taking place. The coolie corps has been reinforced from other sectors in order to speed up transport. Shanghai will hear the guns soon unless Chekiang's defence is greatly strengthened. Under the protection of concentrated fire an effort will be made on the opening day of the offensive to throw a pontoon bridge across the canal on "no man's land." This is borne out by the arrival during the last few days, of thousands of empty oil drums at the front and also by the great activity noticeable in the Engineer Battalion headquarters. Once over the creek, an attempt to get Chekiang troops into open fighting will be made.

I do not believe that expenditure at the present rate can continue indefinitely. If the munitions consumed are being paid for, this war will have to stop for lack of funds before long. But a final push for victory is now imminent. It must come soon too with all the power Kiangsu has got behind it. If it fails to dent the front appreciably, peace negotiations may be opened soon after. Should Marshal Lu hold his lines against this thrust by Kiangsu, Lu will have won a redoubtable reputation for valor, for against him at this time, all units included, there must be at least 100,000 men.

September Race Meeting At Tsingtao More Local In Attendance, Program

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tsingtao, Sept. 15.—The opening day's races of the September meeting took place here yesterday on the spacious green course of the International Club and served to attract a large crowd of people. This time, however, local residents, instead of vacationists, were chiefly in evidence.

The program had a local flavor throughout as local jockeys rode the ponies and the latter were largely Tsingtao-owned. A pleasing feature was the increased number of entrants and the large fields brought out some spirited competition.

The surprise of the day was furnished by Mr. Kitamura, who brought Fuji and Kachimasu home in front of the field. They were the first victories recorded here by Japanese-owned poines.

An odd occurrence was the failure of anyone to back Broad Arrow, ridden by Mr. Schneider, for a win in the first race. The rank outsider won, and paid $13.70 place money.

The results were:

First Race—Subscription Pony Selling Plate—mile and-quarter.
1—Arrow's Broad Arrow (Schneider).
2—Australia's Sydney (Alperovich).
3—Star's Lucky Star (Chang).
Halcyon Sea and Sung Shan also ran.
Place, $13.70, $13.70. No backer to win. Time—2:49 2-5.

Second Race—Huang Ho Plate—half mile.
1—Mongolia's Alabama (Alperovich).
2—Optimists' The Kid (Simons).
3—Fly Stable's Butterfly (Raydt).
Marigold and City of Osaka also ran.
Win, $14.10. Place $6.70, $6.60. Time—60 3-5.

Third Race—Tsinanfu Plate—one mile.
1—Naruo's Fuji (Kitamura).
2—Star's Morning Star (Chang)
3—Mrs. S. Zimmerman's Mars (Alperovich).
Darkstone and Baby also ran.
Win, $35.40. Place $11.40, $6.80. Time—2:09 3-5.

Fourth Race—Hai Ho Plate—three-quarters mile.
1—Tone's Kachimasu (Kitamura).
2—Park's Regent's Park (Alperovich).
3—Mongolia's Arshan Gold (Judah).
Win, $7.90. Place $11.90. Time—1:32.

Fifth Race—Lincheng Plate—five furlongs.
1—Star's Bright Star (Chang)
2—Union's Lau Shan (Alperovich).
3—Star's Lucky Star (Wong).
Ping Ping, Tartar, Marigold, Bushey Heath, Silversea, Swift Arrow, Hua Liu and Asia also ran.
Win, $8.50. Place $5.70, $9.10 and $6.60. Time—1:17 2-5.

Sixth Race—Hui Chuan Handicap—mile and a half.
1—Mongolia's Altan Gold (Alperovich).
2—Mrs. S. Zimmerman's Delta (Chang).
3—M. A. Katz's Rhythm (Simmons).
Broad Arrow, Tsingtao and Tai Shan also ran.
Win, $8.70. Place, $6.90, $8.70. Time—3:22.

Seventh Race—Pei Hai Plate—three-quarters mile.
1—Star's Morning Star (Chang)
2—Mrs. S. Zimmerman's Madhatter (Schneider).
3—Tobolsk Stable's Amur (Taylor).
Win, $8.80. Place, $7.20. Time—1:34 3-5.

Eighth Race—Consolation Plate—one mile.
1—Park's Regent Park (Alperovich).
2—M. A. Katz's Baby (Simmons).
3—Sea's Halcyon Sea (Raydt).
Sung Shan also ran.
Win $15.10. Place $10. Time—2:11.

Flight Of Lu's Cohorts From Hangchow Follows On Well-Based Rumors

(China Press Correspondence)

Hangchow, Sept. 17.—Flights to the haven of Shanghai received a new impetus here yesterday, and the stream of the fleeing was specially swelled this morning. Families of the military circles are now joining the stream also. It was reported here yesterday that the city of Chu Chow, approximately twenty miles from the borders of Chekiang and Fukien had fallen into the hands of the Fukien troops which means the opening of activities on another battle front.

Formerly the troops of Generals Chang Ts-pin and Yang Hwa-tsang who are now on the front in Kiangsu were stationed in the Chu Chow section. When the conflict with Kiangsu loomed up as inevitable these troops were recalled from their border station and the native sons of Chekiang, under command of General Pan Koh-kang were sent up to take their place. If the tales in circulation here now can be believed there must have been a time when there were no Chekiang troops in Chu Chow. At any rate the reports have it that the Fukien troops beat those of General Pan to the city and were safely ensconced there when the latter appeared. Apparently there has been nothing more than a brush between the two bodies of troops, for Chekiang has withdrawn back this way, and left the Fukien men unmolested.

Chu Chow this fallen out-post on the Southwest border, is over three hundred li away from Hangchow, and if General Pan and his troops line up in real battle many cold days of winter will have passed before the people here will see opposition soldiers in the streets of their city. However, fears have been revived and there is a renewed apprehension throughout the city. Another tale that seems hardly within the possible after the reports which have come day after day, is that there has been no fighting at Nyi Hsin. Reports emanating from Lunghwa have had it that there had been continuous bombardment for at least two full days and that there had been long breaches in the wall which meant the fall of the city within a very short time. This report, whether true or false, has added to the fear that Chekiang would have to withdraw within her borders on the west of Taiho. Then within the past two days the city has received her first wounded. They came in by train, presumably an over-flow through Shanghai, and speculation as to why is rife. These are being taken care of in the C. M. S. hospital. Yesterday, however, a few other wounded came in by way of Huchow, and presumably from Nyi Hsin, so there must be fighting there.

Another circumstance which has added to the confusion and uncertainty of the people was the return two days ago of a unit of the local Red Cross from Chang Hsin, with a report that there was no work for them to do. This in spite of the report from Huchow that hospital facilities there are over-crowded.

LATER

There are persistent rumors here this afternoon that the troops of Pan Ts-chang, the first division, not only did not oppose the advance of the Fukienese against Chuchow, but that they have formed a laison against Governor Lu Yung-hsiang. Word has come from Kinhwa, a hundred miles up the river in the center of the province that the Fukien troops with the Chekiang allies of the first division will be in Hangchow within four days. They are now reported to be at Nyienchow on their way down the Chen Tong River.

Report further has it that General Chen Yao-san, commander of the Chekiang troops in the Taiho district has followed General Pan in his desertion of Governor Lu and the Chekiang cause. It is pretty definitely known that it took repeated urging and even entreaty to secure General Chen's advance to Changhsin, and because of this the people here are ready to believe the report of his defection to the other side. It is also remembered that he was a soldier of former Governor Yang, immediate predecessor of Governor Lu. When the conflict threatened last spring General Chen was under suspicion, and he and his soldiers were placed where it was thought they could be shunted out of the province if the need arose.

All of this speculation and rumor mongering may not have anything of truth in it, but it is thoroughly believed here. In fact faith in it is mounting with every telling, and with the growing faith in it there grows apprehension and a yielding to fears. Trouble and looting is believed to be almost certain. The special troop and ammunition train to Shanghai this morning took also great numbers from military families, and there is unusual activity at the Governor's yamen, as movable things are being taken away, presumably Shanghaiward, for safety. There are a hundred little things, in themselves of no significance, which tend to add dread to apprehension, and the city is in danger of panic. Steadier heads are trying to exert themselves against what they believe is not a real danger after all. Even if the rumors cited are true, it is very likely to be a quiet upheavel resulting in a change of government and personnel. It is fairly generally believed that Governor Lu has gone already to Shanghai, and one wonders if the belief is prophecy.

Hangchow, Sept. 18.—Governor Lu Yung-hsiang is still in the city, but few believe he will be by night fall. Four special trains have been commandered for use by the military authorities, in which soldiers, officers, families household furniture and amunition will be taken to Shanghai. The carting and carrying of furniture from the Governor's yamen is still feverishly going on, and it looks now as if a final exodus of the leaders of the Lu cause is under way.

The first levy of capital in Hangchow seems certain to be exacted as a parting gift from the city to General Lu. He is demanding the payment of two hundred thousand dollars, and the Chamber of Commerce is meeting today to decide on means and ways for raising the amount. It looks as if this amount will no sooner be paid to the forces which are bent now in retiring, before a second levy may be made by the incoming forces, the leader of which is not yet determined. At any rate, new forces are coming and they will almost certainly take peaceful possession of the city, or so one must judge from appearances now. The soldiers here are too few to put up much of a resistance, and there is an open way to the north with a chance to cut the railway behind the retreat.

There is a growing conviction that Civil Governor Chang and Hsia Ting-he will come into power, though Chang voluntarily retired and appointed Hsia as supreme commander in the city. In the meantime Pan Ts-chang, the leader who with his troops has turned on Governor Lu, has his eye on number one place in the province. Whatever happens it looks probable for the triumph of the Chekiang for Chekiang sentiment which has been smouldering for some years past. It is thought, here also, that most of the civil officials will be forced out and that a clean sweep will be made if new forces come into power.

The people are taking hope in the possibility of the city's passing into local rather than outside leadership, with the thought that it will be spared from looting and general disorder.

(China Press Correspondence)

Huchow, Chekiang, Sept. 16.—After fighting has been going on for three or four days at Szean, according to reports arriving in Huchow, we are now at a loss to know whether or not there ever has been any real fighting in that sector. Today rumors are abroad, and they are given prominence from more or less trustworthy sources, that the fighting is one of noise only, and not of bullets. The opposing generals, namely General Win Ping in charge of the Chekiang forces, and General Wang Pu in charge of the Anhwei forces at that place, are said to be good friends, and not willing to fight one another. But orders have been given and fight they must. So, to carry on and thus perform their duty, and still not to endanger the lives of their friend's commands, it is said that they have removed the bails from their shells and are staging a battle worthy of almost any moving picture film that Hollywood can produce. Some credence is lent to this rumor inasmuch as we cannot yet learn anything of the number and whereabouts of the wounded.

Last night a number of large boat loads of soldiers together with their equipment passed Huchow for Changsing. How many and where they were from could not be learned. Yesterday eight barges and several other large boats carrying slightly over 2,000 coolies passed through here en route to Changsing. It is said they have been recruited in Shanghai, and are destined for service at the front as soldiers. Practically none of them has ever had a gun in his hands so they state, and yet they are taking this new venture into their lives as stoically as if they were merely touring the country on a sightseeing trip.

Navy Secretary Is Assailed For Jingoistic Talks

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, Sept. 18.—The New York World, in an editorial, says that if the recall of Secretary Wilbur was not due to the character of his speeches on the Pacific Coast as affirmed at the White House, it should have been.

The paper adds that only meagre reports of the speeches have reached the Atlantic Coast, but these intimate that Secretary Wilbur has been talking for a big navy in the best style of "Jingo", all directed, of course, at Japan, without the slightest provocation.

President Coolidge cannot afford to have his administration identified with truculent bluster of this kind but, the paper asserts, he seems to be indifferent.

COLUMBIA C. C. COMPLAINANTS IN LARCENY ACTION

Club Shroff Charged With Theft Of $10,000 From Safe

In the Mixed Court yesterday the larceny case came up in which the Columbia Country Club are the complainants against a shroff by name of Hoh Loh-liang, charged with the theft of Tls. 10,000 from the Club. The case came up last week and was remanded. In Court yesterday Mr. Bucknell, American Assessor, and Magistrate Zau presided.

Mr. Davies, for the prosecution, outlined the case, saying that on August 28 a check was signed at the Club for 10,000 taels, payable to Ah Hong, a contractor. The check was placed in the safe, and the accountant, who has keys to the safe, was instructed to give the check to Ah Hong if the latter came while the secretary, Mr. Kleine, was absent. Three days later the accountant disappeared and Mr. Kleine found out that he had stolen some money. On September 9 Ah Hong inquired why he had not received payment as arranged, and it was found that the check was missing. Upon inquiries being made it was ascertained that the check had been cashed.

Mr. C. E. Kleine, Secretary of the Club, put on the stand, told the story of the check. He mentioned the duties of the accountant, who received from $500 to $1,000 each month in cash from different parties for the Club. He received $65 monthly as wages.

The story was told in some detail of how the accused had deposited the check and later drawn out the money, giving 8,000 taels to another man whose identity is unknown. There was considerable argument, and the case was finally adjourned without judgment being given by the Court.

Mr. Fleming, for the defense, asked that the bail of 20,000 taels which had been fixed be reduced to 2,000 taels, but Mr. Davies objected to this, and the Court declined to grant the reduction.

Russian Child Hawkers Still Frequent Streets Despite Charity Funds

Parents Of Children Refuse To Permit Them To Be Cared For And Educated At Confraternity School, Prefer To Exploit Them

The war has crowded the question of the Russian child hawkers in the streets out of the consciousness of most of Shanghai's public, but a few discerning persons have noticed and commented upon the fact that these children about whom there was so much agitation little more than a month ago are still on the streets.

An investigation of the matter at that time disclosed the fact that following the correspondence in the newspapers on the subject, and the resultant activities of the Russian Refugee Relief Committee on behalf of the children, it was learned that these children have no legitimate right to be on the streets. The police investigated the most flagrant cases of this thinly-disguised child begging and made a report to the Refugee Relief Committee in response to the latter's request. This report revealed the fact that the children in all cases were supporting several adults who were not willing that the children be removed from the streets where they practiced their unlawful art or profession or whatever it may be called unless they, the adults, were provided with jobs.

The youth of the children—most of them are under 10 and a few are 5 and 6—and the fact that most of them are delicate, aroused such sympathy that a few generous-minded people, headed by Mr. W. King, managing director of Kelly & Walsh, personally solicited subscriptions to maintain the children in the school of the Russian Orthodox Confraternity which is situated at 721 Avenue Foch. At the time, it was decided by the Committee to ask the police to enforce the law, remove the children from the streets and place them in the school where they would be fed, housed, educated and given medical attention where needed. The members of the committee who spoke Russian undertook the task of persuading the parents to place the children in the schools.

FUNDS ARE OBTAINED

The situation today is that the director of the school made the necessary accommodations, with the help of the funds obtained. The Race Club generously contributed $100 to the institution and promised $100 additional every month provided the child hawkers were taken off the streets and kept off. Now, despite the great trouble to which various members of the committee and individuals have gone to help these unfortunate young ones, the parents selfishly withhold permission. Obviously since all efforts of the committee to get them to place these children in a school where they will be fed, housed, given medical attention which some of them sorely need have failed it would seem that it now remains for the police to enforce the law which these children are alleged to be breaking, with the apparent consent and connivance of their parents or guardians.

The school which up to the time the Race Club and other generous organisations and individuals contributed to it, was maintained entirely by Russians in Shanghai, is crowded now with an attendance of 22 boys and 8 girls who live there, and 12 boys and girls who are day pupils. Mr. Schelkin, who was a prominent educator in Russia before the War, and who is director of the school, is besieged with applications from poor Russians in Shanghai who are extremely desirous of having their children given the advantages of shelter and education provided there. Mr. Schelkin is keeping the accommodations for the children who are hawking in the streets, in accordance with his promise made to the Russian Refugee Relief Committee and it is to be hoped that the police will step in, take these children off the streets when, possibly, the colossal selfishness of parents and guardians who are exploiting these children will be automatically checked.

CHILDREN WELL KEPT

The Russian Orthodox Confraternity School, under the direction of Mr. Schelkin, assisted by a lady teacher and a schoolmaster, and by Madame Vouich and Dr. Kasakoff, is doing remarkably well for the children in its care with the little it has. The children are clean, bright and happy and while they are not living on the fat of the land, they are getting plain substantial food which is keeping them in good physical condition. The school has received several donations of food from various companies, clothing from individuals and money but with the winter coming on they are sorely in need of fuel and bedding. It is to be hoped that those Shanghailanders who have old shoes, old clothes, particularly of warm materials, and old blankets or bedding will send them to the school, at 721 Avenue Foch, or to Madame Vouich, 10 Route Voyron who will distribute them. The writer has seen the school and is familiar with the working of it and can assure all readers that nothing given to this institution will be wasted.

ITALIAN ARMS MOST SEEN ON KIANGSU SIDE

Movement Of Guns And Forces Through Quinsan Heavier Than Ever Before

BY LANSING HOYT

Quinsan, Sept. 17.—The movement of stores, ammunition, guns and troops towards the front from Quinsan, has assumed unusual proportions, greater than at any time since my arrival here on September 9.

Quinsan is the great distributing center for all that goes into the furnaces of war on the Kiangsu side. Piles of ammunition of Italian manufacture abound. More Italian brands are in evidence than any other make. I wonder what the Doyen of the Consular Body thinks of this? Of course there are thousands of cases of French Hotchkiss cartridges and also some small arms stuff labeled Maxim, London. I may run into some American shells any moment but so far the steady stream of ammunition passing through this depot has failed to reveal any American death-dealing machinery. Several of the cutest little rapid fire batteries of Skoda, Schnellfeurkanone No. 19 Rapid fire guns No. (19) have travelled all the way from Austria to take their places in this League of Nations death promoting assemblage.

Of course, Chinese shells too insist on having a prominent place in this congress for the betterment of China. It would be interesting, indeed, if these shells and guns could talk, to know just what they thought of their former masters in sending them to die an explosive death at the command of some Chinese "infidel" who scarcely knows how to use them well. If they broke their silence, some or perhaps most of them would claim that their makers did not send them direct, but that they were kidnapped or sold into heathen slavery. Yet this war goes merrily on and more Christian bullets join up daily with those already in this dump. No one is responsible, they just happened through. Perhaps, after this last horse has been stolen the nations of Europe will bolt the door. A telegram from Geneva intimates as much but it's rather late to cut much ice in this conflict.

There is, to be sure, something very American in the miniature stock yards contiguous to the Quinsan station. In this arena, are about one thousand of the fattest hogs I have ever seen. They are simply bursting with ignominy and fat. They are the lowest form of life over which transport officers have control, not even excepting the poor benighted coolie who is constantly in evidence jingling his 20 cents per day in his trousers pockets. Of course, the commissariat has no control over friend "cootie." He must be excepted, for this beast of prey is entirely out of hand most of the time and is no respecter of persons, embryonic war correspondents and pigs being in the same category.

Standing on the side lines of the fenced enclosure, I secured a good position from which to watch the antics of these porkers as the hog-boys of Quinsan entered the arena. These men of the Kiangsu plains were stripped to the waist and carried bamboo sticks about eight feet long, but, contrary to wild west practice, were unmounted. They were indeed daring men just off the paddle fields and marvelous physique. Charging through the gate of the yards, six of these stalwarts advanced intrepidly against the thousand swine with bamboos fixed. They reached the first line of the enemy, whacked six hogs on the snouts and as the acorn rooters turned in retreat, grabbed the squealing beasts by their tails. For a moment all seemed lost as the hog-boys were dragged through the wire, but before I could realise what had happened these six hogs had turned turtle under the expert manipulation of the tail grabbers, and in a jiffy were lying, like dead young whales, belly uppermost, near the edge of the arena. Their feet tied in pairs, six of the beasts were swinging majestically on bamboos on their way to the field kitchens.

Such was the "Rodeo" at Quinsan. It was worth a war to stir it. Talk about Wembley and the Highland steer; well, there could be no comparison. If some one would not write to the papers protesting against the cruelty of it all, I believe such a show would go big in Shanghai. At any rate it shows that Kiangsu men are made of stern stuff, and Chekiang must look to its defence.

Mystery Of Ten Missing Books Of Livy Is Solved

Italian Professor Admits That He Was In Error

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Sept. 18.—The mystery of the missing books of Livy has finally been cleared up by the report, accompanied by a signed statement, of Professor Martino Fusco, presented to the Minister of Education by the Inspector-General of State Archives, who has returned from Naples.

The report says that while examining the State archives at Naples, Professor Martino Fusco found a document dated December 23, 1332, which was already well-known, in which King Robert of Anjou ordered a payment to the scribe Paolino for the transcription of the ten books of Livy on the Macedonian war. Professor Fusco, not being versed in mediaeval documents, thought that the Paoline copy was not restricted to the ten known books but referred to a complete text of Livy's works. The Professor continued his researches, in the meantime lightly assuring his friends that he had found all the missing codices and had already begun the transliteration of the second ten.

Professor Fusco's statement admits that he followed a false scent, and formally retracts all his previous statements about the lost books.

The Minister of Education does not doubt the bona fides of the statement, but intends to watch developments with a view, if necessary, to preserving the State rights to the treasure trove.

TIENTSIN GOES UNDER MARTIAL LAW; LI CHIEF

Chihli Continues Movements Of Troops In Direction Of Luanchow

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Sept. 18.—The Chinese police authorities here have received orders from the Peking Government to proclaim martial law in Tientsin. General Li Yung-tien, Pacification Commissioner here, and Mr. Yang I-teh, Chief of the Constabulary, have been appointed Commander-in-Chief and Vice Commander, respectively, of the martial law.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Sept. 18.—Part of the 23rd Division stationed in Techow has been despatched to the district of Luanchow.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Sept. 18.—All the troops of the 3rd Division, Marshal Wu Pei-fu's picked men, are expected to arrive in Lotai today. The 9th Division under General Teng Cheng-kuo has proceeded to Luanchow by rail en route to Hsifungkow. The 7th Mixed Brigade, stationed in Tungchow, as well as half of the 11th Division stationed in Nanyuan, both belonging to General Feng Yu-hsiang, are now marching towards Hsifengkow.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, September 15.—Considerable movements of troops at the week-end are reported, and passenger trains were delayed in consequence. Eighteen troop trains are reported to have reached Chinwangtao yesterday and last night. The 14th Mixed Brigade passed Tientsin yesterday from Paotingfu and Chansientien. The 15th Division travelled in ten trains from Lutai and Lanchowfu to Shanhaikwan on Sunday, while the 12th Mixed Brigade have passed through Tientsin en route to Changli since Saturday. Night trains containing the 23rd Division from Langfang and Machang left Tientsin for the North.

On the 10th instant eight Fengtien trains loaded with stores and ammunition from Koupangtze passed Chins'en and were sent up the branch line from Chinchow to Chaoyang, while a trainload of aeroplane parts reached Chinhsien on the same day.

The report that the railway line had been cut beyond Shanhaikwan is confirmed but the interruption seems to have been caused by the removal of only a few rails which could easily and quickly be replaced. The reason for this action on the part of the Fengtien troops is not clear. Marshal Chang Tso-lin scarcely expected the Chihli forces to go beyond the wall except for scouting purposes, and the assumption is that this action was taken to mislead the Chihli forces. At the same time it is thought possible that Marshal Chang may have decided to send his main force via Hsifengkow and desired to prevent a raid on his communications. This question was debated keenly in Peking today and opinion is still divided on that point.

Wahabis Pillage Town In Hedjaz

(Reuter's Service)

Port Sudan, September 19.—The Wahabi invaders who were reported on September 13 to have raided Hedjaz and captured the town of Taif, seventy miles south-east of Mecca, have not advanced any further than Taif, from which place many refugees have arrived at Jeddah. They say there was much shooting and pillaging on the first night after the capture of Taif. The number of deaths has not yet been ascertained, but possibly from two to three hundred, mostly inhabitants of Mecca, were killed.

Funds For Health Organisation Voted By League Committee

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 18.—The Budget Committee of the League of Nations today by 16 votes to 15 rejected the Italian proposal to increase the vote for the health organisation by 200,000 francs. Great Britain, South Africa, New Zealand and India voted against, and Australia and Ireland voted for, the motion. The Canadian delegate was absent. The proposal of Brazil and Portugal to make an increase of 130,000 francs however, was adopted by 22 votes to 11. The present arrangements for the international exchange of health officers will be maintained.

The Committee also voted 200,000 francs for the settlement of refugees, with a rider added by Sir Henry Strakosch (South Africa) that the appropriation must disappear in 1926.

(French Wireless Through Reuter)

Geneva, September 19.—The Committee on questions of a social and humanitarian character continues to examine the project submitted by Senator Cirsolo (Italy). This project comprises an international federation for mutual assistance to peoples overtaken by some sudden calamity. The matter has been referred to a sub-committee, composed of representatives of Great Britain, Guatemala, France, Japan, Poland, Sweden and Italy, for the purpose of preparing a resolution on it.

The sub-committee specially charged to study the problem of security and disarmament, is now examining the question of arbitration.

COMMON-SENSE TREATMENT FOR CONSTIPATION.

Drink sufficient boiled or filtered water. Eat plenty of ripe fruit and fresh, well-cooked vegetables. Practice the habit of daily regularity. Take a dose of Pinkettes, the little gentle-as-nature laxatives, whenever necessary. Then constipation, bilious attacks, sick headaches, bad breath and liverishness will cease to trouble you. Chemists everywhere sell Pinkettes, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

SOVIET HAS NO SPECIAL RIGHTS, SAYS KARAKHAN

Importance Attached To Note Regarding Employment Of Aviators

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 17.—The Waichiaopu on September 13 drew the attention of M. Karakhan to reports that Russians were serving as aviators and participating in the warfare with General Lu Yung-hsiang, General Ho Feng-lin and Marshal Chang Tso-lin, asking M. Karakhan not to permit such action on the part of Russians in future.

Replying on September 16, M. Karakhan pointed out the numerous notes in which he had called the attention of the Chinese Government to the danger of remnants of "White" bands taking refuge in China and being engaged as police or soldiery, but the Chinese Government had taken no action. The aviators in question were these "White" Russians, whom the Soviet did not recognise. Finally, the Soviet had no special administrative rights or privileges in Chinese territory even as regarded its own citizens.

Special interest attaches to the last statement in view of M. Karakhan's recent declaration in connection with the handing over of the Legation, that the Soviet was still a Protocol Power.

League Committee Discusses Plan To Found Institute

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 18.—A committee meeting was held today to discuss the proposed establishment of the International Institute of Intellectual Co-operation in Paris on the basis of the French offer of Chateau Vincennes as the Institute's headquarters, and an annual allowance of 1,000,000 francs.

Mr. Charlton (Australia) vigorously opposed the proposal on the ground that the Institute would lose its essential international character if it were located in Paris. He urged its establishment in a neutral country.

Professor Gilbert Murray (Britain) agreed that the Institute would be liable to assume the character of the country of its establishment, but expressed the opinion that the committee could not reject the generous French offer.

The committee voted in favor of acceptance of the proposal, but note was taken of Mr. Charlton's objection.

TRADE IN TURKEY DESCRIBED BY OTTOMAN BANK

Various Influences Serve To Aggravate Wartime Depression

The annual report of the Imperial Ottoman Bank, submitted at the shareholders' meeting in London on July 16, points out that instead of the return of prosperity which it had been hoped the peace would bring, various factors, political and economic, have in the last year or two tended rather to aggravate than to allay the state of uneasiness which has so long paralyzed business in Turkey. The bank's review of he Turkish situation goes on to say:

"The new political order in Turkey has been slow in settling down. Elections first, then a Ministerial crisis, and finally, on Oct. 29, the proclamation of the republic, all contributed during the second half of 1923 to keep alive those feelings of uncertainty and apprehension which are inevitable in times of political change. The new Government found itself faced with the arduous task of restoring a country exhausted by twelve years of continuous warfare and of directing its adaptation to a new order. From an economic point of view, then, it is not surprising that the year 1923 should have been marked by a stagnation even more pronounced than that of the year preceding.

"In Constantinople the market has remained inactive, and business has been limited to operations of little importance. The principal causes of this inactivity are: The uncertainty as to the internal policy of Turkey and to the general policy of Europe; the danger to peace which arose in the early months of the year on the check to the negotiations at Lausanne; and lastly the destruction of capital resources in various forms caused by twelve years of warfare and the consequent inability of the population to produce and therefore to purchase commodities.

"During the last year, however, crops were below the average. In the regions traversed by lines of railway and for the plateaus of Central Anatolia the cereal harvest was only moderate. Other crops were equally unsatisfactory; opium yielded only 2,000 cases as against an average of 5,000; mohair, 25,000 bales as against 100,000. The cultivation of silk attained only 10 percent. of the results which were usual before the war. These poor results are largely due to the diminution of the population. Certain products, such as figs and raisins, could not be entirely exported owing to the lack of labor available for packing.

"Movements in exchange have contributed to the stagnation of business. Sudden and violent fluctuations of the rate in the course of month have caused important losses and produced panic among Importers, some of whom have found themselves unable to take delivery of goods which they had ordered. During the period under review the sterling rate has varied between 690 and 811 piastres to the pound. It is to be regretted that speculation should have been able to play so large a part in the unsettlement of monetary conditions. In Turkey the currency question is free from one difficulty which obtains in so many other countries—there has been no inflation of the currency.

"The note issue has not been increased in the slightest degree since the war. In the economic world any general improvement of the situation is to be sought in stimulating demand and thereby causing increased production, in a wider exchange of commodities, in the restraint, so far as that may be possible, of speculation, and not, as some people are disposed to believe, in artificial measures of assistance, which at best are merely palliatives."

Says Exchange Rates Bar Trade With Japan

New York, August 17.—Prevailing rates of exchange are operating as a deterrent to trade between this country and Japan, according to Captain Keizo Itsuno, of the Japanese training ship Shintoku Maru, which visited Los Angeles harbor last week. The Shintoku Maru is the latest and finest of the Japanese Government merchant marine fleet, and is used almost exclusive for the training of cadets. She carries on her present cruise a large quantity of various Japanese products that will be placed on display to induce more trade. Captain Itsuno said Japan is rapidly recovering from the effects of the earthquake, but that trade conditions are not very brisk.

"The present rate of exchange between Japan and the United States is hindering trade," he said. "American firms can afford to purchase goods in Japan, but Japanese firms cannot buy in this country. The Orient is continually being opened more and more to American trade. Japanese firms are seeking American connections, and American firms are gaining more footholds in Japan.

"When the balance of trade becomes more even, and when American interests control their own agencies and banking firms in Japan the trans-pacific trade will immediately experience a great increase."

Hankow Trade

The British Chamber of Commerce, Hankow, states in its weekly circular of trade statistics dated September 10:

Bar silver opening at 34⅞ ready and forward gradually rose to 35 ready and forward and closed the week at that rate. New York-London cross rate at 447½ at the opening fluctuated during the week closing at 444⅛ T.T. at 3s. 4d. rose to 3s. 5d. and closed at that rate. 4 m/credits done in the early part of the week at 3s. 5⅛d. rose in sympathy with the rise in the T.T. rate and closed at 3s. 7d. flat. The volume of business during the week has been small owing to the unsettled local conditions due to the fighting around Shanghai and the possibility of the fighting spreading. Chinese market rates: Shanghai Tls. 100.5 Nom. Local currency $70.5. Native interest 10%.

EXPORTS

There was a good enquiry for produce last week and a fair amount of business done. Wood oil is firm with an upward tendency due to the small stocks here and to the stronger demand from America and Europe.

Sesamum seed is firm; tallow and Chinagrass steady. Hides are in demand from Europe, but there are on supplies available.

IMPORTS

Piece Goods and Yarn:—The financial situation continues serious and no business is being done. It is hoped that some arrangement may be come to with the foreign banks with regard to their acceptance of "Guarantee Bonds" before the settlement on the 13th inst.

BLACK TEA

This week, owing to the shortness of money and of the near approach of the Mid-Autumn Chinese Settlement Day prices eased of considerably and a fair amount of business has gone through for the commoner teas at prices from Tls. 15½—Tls. 20, but in comparison with the large quantity still available, the amount settled is unimportant.

A few transactions for better teas have taken place and have practically eliminated from the market anything above low medium.

Settlements of all kinds have amounted to about 15,000 H/C and visible stocks are about 93,000 H/C, which is a reduction of 10,000 H/C on the week.

Hongkong Stocks

Messrs. Ellis and Co. yesterday received the following quotations by cable from Hongkong:

Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corpn. $1,200 sales.

Hongkong Land Investment Co. $116½ buyers.

Union Insurance Society of Canton $237 buyers.

Hongkong Fire Insurance Co. $600 buyers.

REGULAR SERVICE TO ODESSA IS PLAN OF OSAKA

Merchant's Association Asks Shipping Companies To Start Route

Regular steamship service through the Black Sea to Odessa by way of Constantinople is proposed in overtures made to the companies interested by the Osaka Cotton Cloth and Yarn Merchants' Association.

The request follows the increase in demand for shipments of this sort of cargo noticeable recently in Russia. The Association also proposes to have the steamship companies place Aden on their regular call list of ports on outward trips to make it possible for the merchants to forward their products direct to Africa.

MARKET IN AFRICA

Cotton cloth and yarn are now finding quite a market in the interior of Africa, it s reported, and cotton cloth merchants are hoping to open the new field by shipments via regular Japanese steamers. Indian raw cotton also is in demand in Japan by these merchants, and they requested the steamship companies to call regularly at ports there not now on the list, making a reduction also in the freight rate on cotton cloth and yarn. The establishment of a consulate at Karachi, India, next year is expected to boost trade there both ways.

The matter is now under investigation by both the Nippon Yusen Kaisha and Osaka Shosen Kaisha, which operate regular European services and it is likely to be accepted conditionally, it is said, in its entirety.

Cotton cloth and yarn form the premier products from Japan to China and other Oriental countries and in recent months demand is becoming remarkably active in Russia and Africa for Japanese goods. Lack of adequate marine routes to these countries had caused cotton cloth merchants to approach steamship firms to start special freight service there. It already has been made known that the Yamashita Kisen Kaisha has announced the inauguration of regular freight service to Hindu ports for the exclusive purpose of carrying raw cotton and the firm will be the first Japanese shipping firm to open a Karachi service upon the establishment of the Japanese Consulate there early next spring.

MAY USE FOREIGN SHIP

The Osaka merchants are contemplating opening negotiations with foreign steamship companies to have their ships call at these ports, if circumstances do not allow the Nippon Yusen and Osaka Shosen to start these services.

China Cotton

Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son, Inc., state in their current report: During the past week it looked as if cotton were of absolutely no intrinsic value and the market was pounded down by disgusted bulls and elated bears until December cotton was well under Tls. 35 for Tungchow standard in the exchange. Prices showing at one day a gross decline of Tls. 1.50 to Tls. 1.75, making a total decline of about Tls. 3 to Tls. 5 from the level of a week ago, this being the first real downward movement during the season, and with practically ten taels lower as compared with in the early part of August. The dominant feature of the recent decline was in sympathy with the heavy decline in Mid-Americans, unfavorable trade conditions in the yarn market, and the political trouble in China, also daily increase in arrivals from the interior marts against limited purchases made by local mills.

Judging from the present state of condition, and the favorable crop outlook in the cotton world, we believe that sales should be made anyhow on all reactions.

Yarn: Since our last report, our market has been generally weak with a further decline of nine to ten taels from last week's level. Business for export have been booked, some 6,000 to 7,000 bales in all counts to Szechwan, Fukien, Canton, Swatow, Wuhu, Chefoo, etc.

SPUNT & CO.'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Co.'s report states: Prices in the Cotton Exchanges gradually receded during the past week and show a decline on the whole of about Tls. 1:50 per picul lower than that registered during the previous period. A little business in new crop cotton is reported as having been done for prompt delivery to some foreign and Chinese mills at prices of about Tls. 1 to Tls. 1.50 higher than the quotations ruling at that time in the Cotton Exchange. However, spinners in general show no eagerness as yet to take in supplies to any great extent at present rates unless there be a material improvement in the prospects for the disposition of their yarn out-put at more remunerative figures, and in the event of a cessation of hostilities in the country being realised soon, it would naturally bring about a greater outflow of yarn to the interior, which, in turn, would serve as an impetus to greater activity in the local textile industries causing a more pressing demand for the local staple to evolve. If the receipts from the interior marts are normal, prices will probably remain in a steady position; on the other hand, should any attempt be made at with-holding supplies or rains prevent the picking of the balance of the crop, we may experience firmer markes.

Tone of the market, steady.

Shanghai Tramways

The following is the traffic return of the Shanghai Tramways, (Foreign Settlement) for the week ended September 17, 1924, with figures for the corresponding week last year:

	1924
Gross receipts	$88,277.22
Loss by currency depreciation	42,821.50
Effective receipts	$45,455.72

The Shanghai Portland Cement Works, Ltd.
Manufacturers of the "ELEPHANT" Brand

THE SHANGHAI PORTLAND CEMENT WORKS LTD.

Portland Cement.

The "ELEPHANT" Brand Cement is a cement of Strength and Fidelity. It is the product brought to perfection by modern machinery and expert scientific supervision. Its chemical quality, tensile and compression strength have not been excelled by any cement whether imported from Europe or manufactured in the Far East. The "ELEPHANT" Brand Cement has made a reputation and attained an eminence on the market in ten months time unattainable by another in a decade. Prove these facts yourselves from its users—the Shanghai Municipalities, Tramway Companies, Railways, Conservancy Works and other institutions and individuals. When you want a cement of quality for your construction, specify the "ELEPHANT" Brand.

Sandy Macdonald
SCOTCH WHISKY

The men of the "eighties" were good judges of whisky. They favoured Sandy Macdonald so strongly that its success was conspicuous. But the men of to-day are even better judges, for they favour Sandy Macdonald more than ever. Sandy Macdonald is mellow, mature, soft and satisfying—a drink to appreciate.

Declares U.S. Silk Strikers Are Wrong

Patterson, N. J., August 15.—The strike of the broad silk workers of this city was denounced as ill-timed, illogical and impossible of victory by the Chamber of Commerce in a long statement issued today. This was the first public utterance by the chamber of its stand on a strike since its formation here in 1908.

"It is time," the statement said, "to call a halt on the so-called sympathetic strike in this city, since it has come to be and is promulgated with the understanding that it is to be, instead, an intimidation strike."

The strike was declared to be ill-timed in view of the fact that there has been no extended prosperity in the silk industry, for either the employers or workers, since 1920. It was declared illogical by reason of the added mechanical appliances which enable one weaver to operate three or four looms without undue labor. The strike was precipitated when the weavers declined to operate on the three and four loom system.

"The strikers," said the statement, "have no chance to win, it is not a sympathetic strike at all, but one of intimidation. Many of those workers who have no grievances at all have been forced to become idle."

A further attempt at arbitration was made at a conference of Adolph Lessig, Chairman of the Strike Committee, and United States Commissioner of Conciliation John Moffitt of the Department of Labor. The result of the conference was not made public.

Earlier in the day Mr. Lessig, with four other members of the Strike Committee, called at the office of Mayor Colin McLean to complain of the tactics of the police, whom they charged with beating and threatening the strikers. The Mayor was not at his office and an appointment was made for tomorrow morning. Chief of Police denied that his men had resorted to brutality.

There have been few reports of violence either by the strikers or by workers who have refused to leave their jobs. Extra police were stationed throughout the mill district today.

Chairman Lessig estimated that there were 8,500 men out.

The Collapse Of Chekiang And What It May Mean

THE impending collapse of the independent Government of Chekiang, not caused by defeat at the front, but apparently by treachery at headquarters at the provincial capital Hangchow, changes the China war situation tremendously. Whether General Chang Tso-lin will now advance upon Chihli or content himself with a defence of his boundaries is, of course, unkown. Both Chang and Chihli have now gone through all of the formalities of war declaration, but whether they will continue the fight now is uncertain. The Mukden warlord has saved his face by coming to the rescue of General Lu of Chekiang, even though he did it too late to save the Chekiang situation. Of course, General Chang knows, or should know that he is next on General Wu's schedule, for with Chihli's gains consolidated in the Yangtsze Valley, there cannot be much question of the next move in China's checker-board game of military politics. The position in the South is still uncertain. Super-human efforts are being made to unify the various elements there for a northern advance, but with the collapse of Chekiang, it is questionable whether the unification can be accomplished. Whether Dr. Sun Yat-sen and General Chen Chiung-ming can bury their differences and get together on the basis announced in the reports of the Eastern News Agency yesterday is hard to say at this distance. General Chen Chiung-ming, while opposed to Dr. Sun, has not, nevertheless, ever announced his allegiance to General Wu Pei-fu and the Chihli Party.

Only time can tell what final result in the lower Yangtsze Valley will come out of the collapse of Chekiang. General Chi Shih-yuan was unable to accomplish the defeat of General Lu alone and had to call for assistance from every quarter. Both General Wu Pei-fu and the Christian General, Feng Yu-hsiang sent reinforcements from the North and apparently the effective work was accomplished in the South by General Sun Chuan-fang of Fukien and by the use of northern money in Hangchow. The thing that always follows a war is the division of spoils. Had General Chi of Kiangsu been able to defeat General Lu alone, it would have made him a bigger man than Wu Pei-fu, for already he is the controller of Kiangsu, Anhwei and Kiangsi, and with Chekiang added, he would have been master of the China situation. But, he had to obtan's help from the outside and naturally there must be a division of spoils which will serve to lessen the final strength of the Kiangsu Marshal. Perhaps it is just as well from the standpoint of general peace in China, for with Chi in too strong a position, his temptation naturally would be to test his strength with Wu or enter into an alliance with Mukden, or with the South.

It is one thing to bring in another province and make it loyal and another thing to make it stay loyal. Unless the fighting in the North continues to the point of a victory for one side or the other, the general supposition is that there may be another period of armed peace and building up of financial and military strength for the final culmination of the "peace by armed force" program.

Restoring Continental Credit

PEACE hath its victories no less renowned than war, This old phrase is recalled by the telegram published elsewhere today relative to the proposed conclusion of an Anglo-German commercial treaty in view of the forthcoming termination of the arrangement under the Treaty of Versailles whereby the Allies received most favored nation treatment from Germany. Certain tentative proposals have been made through the British Embassy in Berlin, and Board of Trade experts will shortly proceed to Berlin to hold preliminary conversations with German experts, preparatory to the conclusion of a definite treaty subsequently. If such an arrangement is effected, the commercial cooperation of Great Britain and Germany in peace time is likely to do the two countries and the world generally far more good than the armed antagonism which arrested world progress for four long, weary years, from the effects of which the victims are still suffering.

It is difficult to see how European progress is possible without an early restoration of Continental credit. For some time past Germany has been in the throes of a financial and industrial crisis. The position, though not fully appreciated abroad, because of the other preoccupations of the time, is, in fact, of great seriousness, even if its inevitability, as a corollary of recovering economic and financial health; be admitted. For some time the Reichsbank has refused steadfastly to renew inflation by extending its credit structure, in face of repeated demands of traders, while other of the lending banks have preferred to lend to their smaller brethren and thus keep their resources liquid instead of financing trade. Because of the difficulties thus created, commodities have had to be thrown out at declining prices. Inability to finance other operations readily has accentuated sales of stocks and shares in order to obtain funds, and has led to a quickened effort after exports business, together with some limitation of production. These factors will do something to right the position, but recovery cannot be expected to be other than gradual.

In authoritative London financial circles the conviction is gaining ground that if Great Britain is to get the best out of future prosperity, she must look ahead and make proper preparations. Into this question, of course, many factors enter, and not all of them are easy to elucidate. That circumstances now are utterly different from those to which the British people had been accustomed for very many years is borne in upon them every day; nor is the task of Great Britain in maintaining and increasing her proportion of the trade of the world likely to become easier. It is, therefore, of paramount importance to the future of British industry that as complete an exposition as possible should be made of all the influences that enter into the position as we know it today. Only on the basis of ascertained knowledge of comparative production costs and the many other cognate matters upon which the prosperity of trade depends can the British people be put into possession of the material requisite to their future guidance.

If it is true, as many financial authorities believe, that the resettlement of European conditions and the credit of other countries will bring intensified international competition, then it is of vital importance that Great Britain should be equipped with a plan to meet the new facts. Unorganised groping and casual effort from day to day will be no substitute for coordination. The changed facts of life today have impressed on the economic world of Europe the fact that no one nation can prosper if the others are allowed to wade in a financial morass. The interests of all are inter-dependent. No commercial treaty between Great Pritain and Germany will do much to restore Continental credit as a whole. There is no gainsaying the power of Great Britain to serve the world efficiently and to sell her products successfully against all comers. Cotton, sugar and other products of the Empire suggest avenues in which the position of the country can be made safer, with the welcome accompaniment of profit-earning. Britain is somewhat behind other nations, and seriously behind some, in the matter of technical equipment, and that needs to be made good if the British manufacturer is to be sure of holding his own with the foreigner when purchasing power revives. In short, there is an abundance of preliminary and essential organizing work awaiting to be done against the coming of active trade again. The commercial value to the country of the British Empire Exhibition is not to be under-estimated, and if to this is added a well conceived commercial treaty with Germany, the result will be beneficial to both countries. Russia was formerly one of Germany's biggest customers, but the purchasing power of that country has dwindled down almost to nothing with the virtual destruction of the nation's economic life. The loss of Russia as a market may be largely offset by the proposed trade pact between Britain and Germany, which incidentally should go a long way to soften, and eventually remove altogether, the bitter memories of the late War.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

BY WM. F. KIRK

Ma & Pa & Me was to a movy picter last nite, the maim of the picter was The Hate of Her. I dident like the naim & I dident like the picter, I doant like picters about hate & ree-venge etc. Life is too short for them things, we shud love one & Another & not hate nobody, peepul that you hate mite bust you on the noase.

Ma sed it was a good picter beekaus it showed that wimmen will stand about so much & no moar.

Pa sed it was a joak picter bekaus wimmen doant have to stand ½ as much in this life as men has to stand. Look at the poor men all around us, sed Pa, standing on thare feet all day & working like slaives to keep the wolf from the doar, Pa sed, wile wimmen sets on the sofy & reeds novels and eets chockilit.

That is silly, sed Ma, wimmen work harder than men, as a genneril thing, sed Ma. Look at you & me, sed Ma. I do moar work in a week than you do in a month, sed Ma.

You only think so, sed Pa.

I know so, sed Ma. There are a 1,000 little deetails about a heam that a woman must look after, sed Ma. It is only after a wife & mother is ded & gone, sed Ma, that her husband reelizes what a lot of work she did, sed Ma, & then he sheds crockydile teers & reelizes that it is too late, sed Ma.

If you shud go I wud shed bitter teers, sed Pa, & thay wuddent be crockydile teers.

What is it, crockydile teers? I sed.

Well, Bobbie, sed Pa, that is a term for teers that wimmen weep, sed Pa. Thay can maik thare eyes water jest like thay was crying, sed Pa, but thay ain't eeven sorry, Pa sed.

Your father is trying to be smart, Bobbie, sed Ma. Wimmen do not shed very many crockydile teers, Ma sed. They have enuff reeson to shed reel teers, sed Ma.

Pa laffed.

You needent snicker, sed Ma, it is the trewth. If thay cud gather up all the teers wimmen shed in one yeer, sed Ma, it wud maik a mitey river. The teers that milyuns of wimmen has shed, sed Ma, thru the endless yeers, has flowed together & that is what made the big oshuns, sed Ma.

Rats, sed Pa.

No rats about it, sed Ma. That is what maiks the oshuns salty, sed Ma.

Bobbie, sed Pa, you heer what yure deer mother is saying, doant you? Be careful about gitting married wen you are groan up, Bobbie, sed Pa. You mite git a wife that crys every day & sets thare watching her teers run into the oshun, sed Pa.

If my wife crys I will razz her about it, I sed. I will maik so much fun of her that she wont cry no moar.

Life is too short for us to cry & maik a rore about everything, we shud laff & be mary wile we are here, it aint long, sum days I feel like I am gitting pritty old.

Our Literary Column

EXCERPTS FROM GREAT WRITERS

By Mathy

SUBCONSCIOUS FEARS

A young man writes that he is afraid of thunderstorms, and asks if there is no way for him to overcome this weakness. "I am normal in every other respect," he adds, "but notwithstanding my endeavors to fight off this nervousness I find it to be of no avail; it appears to be a sort of subconscious fear."

This is not a matter of ridicule, but a sample of very real and acute suffering to which many persons are subject by fear-panics due to various causes.

Many women steam with terror at the sight of a mouse. There is no use telling them that mice will not hurt them. So doing, you are addressing their reason, while the troubles lies not in their intelligence—it is a nervous disease. They scare just as a horse shies at a newspaper flapping in the wind.

Caesar Augustus was almost convulsed at the sound of thunder.

Tycho Brahe changed color and his legs shook under him on meeting a rabbit.

Dr. Samuel Johnson would never enter a room left foot first.

Talleyrand trembled at the mention of the word—death.

Marshal Saxe was mortally afraid of a cat.

Peter the Great could never be persuaded to cross a bridge, and, though he tried to master his terror, was unable to do so.

I myself have never been able to rid myself of a fear of horses, and the tamest old nag gives me the creeps.

And I know a senior in Wellesley College, a young lady of strong intelligence, who could be sent almost into convulsions by showing her a spider or a caterpillar.

To determine the cause of these fear-obsessions is a business for the psychologist. They seem to have nothing to do with the mind or the will, but to be, as my correspondent suggests, rooted somewhere in the subconsciousness.

That these weaknesses can be entirely eradicated in a grown person is doubtful. It is about as difficult to uproot an ingrained fear as to get rid of a distaste for mutton. Certain strong natures can perhaps cure themselves, but the average man has to accommodate himself to his weakness and resist it the best he can.

But the cruel part of this whole matter is that almost all of these fears are TAUGHT US WHEN WE ARE CHILDREN. Many a child's mind is deliberately poisoned by fear-suggestions that are to plague him his life long.

Whoever threatens a child, or frightens a child by the fear of thunder or lightning or the dark or ghosts or the bad man or death or hell or a vindictive Deity, should be flogged.

Many a delicate child has been more horribly tormented by suggested fears than he could ever have been hurt by corporal punishment.

The most deeply moral lesson any mother can instil into her child is that he be UNAFRAID—of anything in life or death. And whose teaches a child a fear has made an incurable wound in his soul.

RECOGNITION VERSUS RESPONSIBILITY

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Dear Sir.—Ever since his recognition by the World Powers, Tsao Kun, in spite of strong oppositions from all parts of the Republic, has, after all, had an opportunity of sitting in a Presidential chair—a chair for the man of letters but not at all for an ignorant militarist.

Taking advantage of the honorable recognition by the Powers and in co-operation with the President, Wu Pei-fu, the Loyang Dictator, has been busily making arrangements for purchasing large quantities of ammunitions from foreign countries with a view to exercising his despotic attitude as well as expanding his militaristic sphere of influence over the whole country, under cover of carrying out the Presidents' scheme toward the unification of China.

In a word, such a monarchical plan as being utilised by Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu does not in anyway represent the will of the people, nor does it win their recognition as a whole; but on the contrary, it helps to add more fuel to the flame, as evidenced by the existing civil war in China.

As it is generally known that Wu Pei-fu is wise enough to incite the Military Governor of one province to attack the other, with the assurance that "decorations of high order," etc. will be awarded for such illegal undertaking.

Under these circumstances, it is in the nick of time that the Powers should announce their cancellation of the recognition of the Tsao Kun Government, and let the sons of Young China fight for a democratic government—a lawful government by the people and for the people.

As stated in a local paper this morning that a certain Power, under the pretext of the decline in trade, is prepared to file claim against the Chinese Government, it is, however, imperative that the Power in question should gloriously hold itself responsible for its undue recognition of the "Tsao Kun Government."

LIANG WAI-YIN.

Shanghai, Sept. 19.

A CURIOUS AFFAIR

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Sir.—At 11 a.m. of the 18th inst., when walking along North Szechuen Road, at the corner of Quinsan Road, a foreigner strolling against me suddenly gave me a blow on my left hand without any reason. At that time I would have returned him an identical reward, but thinking that I am an educated gentleman, I bore it with composure.

The civilisation of Europe has long been admired by the peoples of the world, but it is unfortunate to be stained by such people with barbarous movement.

As the object of your editorial matter is famous for its popular, I take the liberty to ask you to edit these few lines on your paper, and should the offender see them, he would take them as a good warning for the future.

When it gives us the gossip and news,
When those who are licensed for preaching
Shall turn to broadcasting their views,
We will sit in our small corners, blinking,
Our minds will be dulled and at rest;
There will be no occasion for thinking
Which always is hard, at the best.

From sermon to weather predictions
We will all get the same kind of dope;
We can cease to have any convictions,
We can all use a standardised hope;
They will give up our menus for dinner
And waft us the solace we seek,
Alike for the saint and the sinner,
Alike for the bold and the meek.

When the radio works to perfection
We will loll on soft cushions and yawn,
While candidates seeking election
Will say where the lines shall be drawn;
We will cease to learn spelling and reading,
And no one will know how to write;
One leaders will do all their leading
Forever concealed from our sight.

They will broadcast familiar quotations
Concerning love, labor and wealth;
We will all have the same regulations
In sickness and also in health;
We will cease to attempt to be clever,
There will be no occasion for that;
We will give up all effort forever,
And just sit around and be fat.

The Endless Fascination Of Atlantis

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Plato hit the bullseye of the human imagination squarely in the center with his story of Atlantis, the wonderful continent, filled with all the splendors of a high civilisation, that was, in one dreadful night, sunk to the bottom of the Atlantic ocean; where now gay Summer tourists from the New World sail unwittingly over the summits of its once cloud-piercing peaks, and above the drowned valley, haunted by sea-monsters, which, before the cataclysm, were brilliant with the temples and the homes of a vanished race of men.

"On that night the Abyss opened and swallowed me,
And the Elements danced upon my breast!"

Plato got his story from Egypt, the source of all that is deep and mysterious. The early legends about Atlantis locate it in the Atlantic off the "Pillars of Hercules." There is no question as to where they were; they have always stood where they are now found, one on either side of the Straits of Gibraltar. Atlantis, then, if as large as Plato, or his informants, described it, must have covered all that part of the ocean which is sparsely dotted today by the groups of islands called the Azores, the Canaries and the Cape de Verds.

The ingenious astronomer of Bourges, the abbe Th. Moreux, has just published a little book: "Atlantis; Did It Exist?" He brings together Plato's relation, as developed in the "Timaeus" and the "Critias," quotes many legends, poems and scientific facts and theories, and states his own opinion, which is favorable to belief in the underlying reality of the Atlantis myth. But nothing in his book is so interesting or convincing as this quotation which he makes from the geologist, P. Termier (I condense some parts of it):

"In the Summer of 1898 a ship was employed in laying the submarine cable between Brest and Cape Cod. The cable had been broken, and they tried to fish it up with grappling irons. It was in latitude 77 degrees, 0 minutes north, and longitude 29 degrees 40 minutes west of Paris, about 500 miles north of the Azores. The mean depth was ten thousand feet.

"The raising of the cable presented great difficulties, and for several days it was necessary to drag the grapples about over the bottom. They remarked this: the bottom of the sea in those parts presents the characters of a mountainous land with fifty summits, steep slopes, and profound valleys. The summits are rocky and mud is found only in the hollows of the valleys.

"The grapple in sliding over this very irregular surface was continually caught among sharp-pointed hard rocks and steep ridges. Almost always it came up twisted, or with its point broken. On several occasions they found between the teeth of the grapple small mineral splinters, having the appearance of fragments recently broken off. All these splinters belonged to the same kind of rock.

"It was the unanimous opinion of those who did the grappling and dragging that the fragments in question had been detached from bare rock. The splinters consist of vitreous lava, having the chemical composition of basalt, and called by petrographers, tachylite. Such lava could only have been formed under atmospheric pressure . . .

"The ground which constitutes the bottom of the Atlantic, 900 kilometers north of the Azores, was, then, covered with lava flows while it was still above sea-level. Consequently, it must have been engulfed, sinking to a depth of 3,000 meters; and since the surface of its rocks has retained the irregularities, the asperities, the steep ridges of recent lava flows, its engulfment must have followed close after the outpour of the lava, and have been very sudden . . . Conclusion inevitable: a whole region north of the Azores, and comprising, perhaps, the Azores themselves, which isles would then be only the visible ruins, has quite recently foundered, probably within the epoch that geologists call the latest, and which for us, now living, seems but yesterday."

The significance of this is that it strikingly accords with the legends which assert that Atlantis was first overwhelmed with a volcanic outburst, and then immediately swallowed up by the sea. So the ancient and hidden, but not altogether forgotten tragedies of our Mother Earth are gradually unfolded to us, her children.

Once Overs

BY J. J. MUNDY

BY J. J. MUNDY

You gain nothing trying to force yourself into a class of society where you are not especially wanted.

You may be tolerated, treated courteously as a gentleman, as might be expected from ladies and gentlemen, but there will be a certain line over which you will be permitted never to step.

There is the inner circle you never reach, no matter how hard, nor by what means you seek access, if the members of it are sought by you.

When you have done your part by way of presenting yourself for acceptance by those you wish to take you in, and they have not done so, it is useless to exert yourself or try by devious methods to obtain favor.

It matters not how well you dress, what you spend nor how you may entertain, under these circumstances you make no real advancement.

Far better to be a member of a set that really appreciates you at your true value then to be a hanger-on in a set where you are merely tolerated.

In the long run you will get more real pleasure out of those who like you for yourself and at the same time you will establish more real friendships.

A forced popularity gains you nothing.

Monkeys in the Jungle Decorate Smart Embroidered Frock

Have you seen the new picture frocks?

They are not picture frocks in the sense that we used to speak of "picture" hats. They actually show designs so graphic as actually to amount to pictures. A few months ago Premet intercated and amused her customers by a frock showing an embroidered picture of a horse race running around the lower part of the bodice. A frock was shown in this country with suite a romantic picture of castles and craggy mountains painted by hand on crepe. And here is a white crepe tunic frock with an amusing embroidered border of black monkeys. To complete the impression of monkeys it is worn with a black kid dog collar studded with silver nail heads edged with white monkey fur.

If these pictorial frocks continue in favor we may find women much interested in embroidering original and amusing designs and pictures for ther own frocks, bending over the embroidery frames as attentively as did Matilda, wife of William the Conqueror, when she worked the Bayeux tapestries.

Two hundred years and more ago the woman who was inclined to put in hours of close work over the embroidery or tapestry frame "did" backs and seats for drawing room and dining room furniture. More recently she embroidered all manner of table doilies, scarfs and centerpieces. But elaborately embroidered table napery is no longer smart, we no longer fancy tapestry-covered furniture, and so the only thing to do is to make picture embroidery on our own clothes.

They say that there really has been are revival of interest in fine needlework. More of the tools of this sort of fancy work are now sold than in some time before. In England it is considered rather swagger for young girls to take up fine embroidery and other needlework. Doubtless royal approval has something to do with it there.

BED TIME BELIEFS

To place the bed across the floor boards used to be considered unlucky. Some persons would have refused to lie in a bed until its position had been changed so it would run parallel with the boards of the floor. It has long been thought that to sleep with one's head toward the north would shorten the length of one's life. It was regarded as a sign of coming fortune to lie facing the east, while to lie facing the west was regarded as a sign of change of scene.

TODAY'S GOOD RECIPES

Chicken Salad.

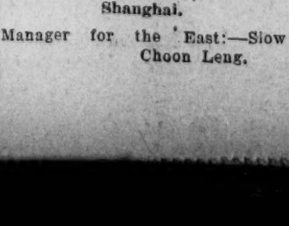
Truss a chicken and put it, breast down, in a casserole; add the giblets, a carrot and onion (sliced), a blade of mace, and salt and pepper. Add two cups of cold water, and then cover the casserole closely. Bring to simmering point either in the oven or on the stove, and simmer steadily until the fowl is tender. This should take about two hours. Take the fowl out of the casserole and cut into neat joints. Strain the liquor, and put the fowl and liquor back in the casserole. Make thoroughly hot and just before serving sprinkle in a tablespoon of capers.

Cream of Chicken Soup

Two quarts chicken broth, one cup cream, two tablespoons cornstarch. Season broth with mace, salt, celery seed and pepper. Dissolve the corn-starch in the cream. Stir slowly into the hot broth and stir till it thickens.

Chicken in Casserole

Mix six tablespoons of olive oil, one teaspoon of paprika and two tablespoons of lemon juice and pour over one pint of cold, cooked chicken, cut in cubes, one cup and one-half of preserved pineapple cut in cubes, one-half a cup of blanched almonds, shredded, and two heads shredded endive. Mix thoroughly and shape in a mound on a bed of lettuce leaves. Spread half a cup of mayonnaise over the top of the mound.



Don't stop Advertising

ADVERTISING is to-day the mightiest factor in the business world. It is an evolution of modern industrial competition. It is a business builder, with a potency that goes beyond human desire. It is a positive creative force in business. It builds factories, skyscrapers and railroads. It multiplies human wants and intensifies human desires.

We have been carrying on our business for more than thirty years and have been enjoying the confidence and commendation of the public. We are selling the coals of the best Chinese coal mines, such as, Dah Doong Coal, Ching Hsing Coal, Chung Hsing Coal, Tung Woo Coal, Houchi Coal, Liu Ho Kow Coal as well as Saghaline Coal. The Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railway, Compagnie des Messageries Maritimes, and Italian, American, French and Chinese Warships, Cotton Mills and other industrial factories have been purchasing great quantities of coal from us, and our annual sale amounts to over 200,000 tons.

Our coal is best selected and at moderate prices, and consumers may rely on us in obtaining the right kind of coal as named on their order, and that is why our business has been increasing steadily.

Orders from foreign warships are especially welcome. It is understood that warships used to purchase coal from the merchants who are not belonging to the coal trade and who obtain their coal after passing many hands. These merchants do not understand what is the right coal for warships, who are liable to be cheated by these merchants. Such practices bring serious damage to the names of our Chinese coal mines.

We are doing business on thoroughly honest basis in a measure to preserve the name of our Chinese coals as well as to push our business. We guarantee the satisfaction of foreign steamships who may place orders with us.

Coolidge Declares War On Official Corruption In The Life Of America

Cites Reduction Of Public Debt As A Proof Of Honest Government; Is Ready To Call Arms Parley

Washington, Aug. 14.—Common sense in government, lower taxes, removal of unemployment, rehabilitation of Europe, improved economic conditions, with higher wages and better prices for farm products—these are a few of the reasons President Coolidge advanced in accepting the Republican nomination for President tonight, why he expects the indorsement of the American people at the polls in November.

The President referred somewhat scornfully to those who would remove all thought of these accomplishments of his Administration, and the aim for even greater improvement which he cherished, and made the issue of the campaign "honest government."

Dishonest governments, the President tersely pointed out, do not introduce budget systems, cut down taxes, purge pay rolls, or reduce the public debt.

GOVERNMENT IS SOUND

"That is not the way of dishonesty," he said. "The government is sound, but individuals charged with wrongdoing are being prosecuted. The people of this country hate corruption. They know my position. They know the law will be enforced."

"No government," he said a moment later, "was ever able to prevent altogether the commission of crime, but this government, under my direction, is doing the best it can to detect and punish any and all wrong-doing. The laws of the land are being, and will continue to be, enforced."

The address of acceptance was made at Continental Memorial Hall of the D. A. R. With a capacity of only about 2,000 there was a marked contrast with the tremendous open air meeting at which John W. Davis was notified of the Democratic nomination last Monday night at Clarksburg W. Va. Elaborate arrangements with amplifiers and radio, however, were in effect, so that every one who wished could listen to what the President had to say.

MRS. COOLIDGE PRESENT

Mrs. Coolidge and John, now their only son, occupied a box. Only a few hundred of the 2,000 seats were reserved, these being for the national committee, the notification committee, Senators and officials and the press. The rest were thrown open to the public, first come, first served.

Written in the short, clear, smashing sentences characteristic of Calvin Coolidge's thinking, there was nothing nebulous or hazy about where the President stood on any subject. He pounded home facts which, to listen to some of the recent political discussions, have been entirely ignored of late.

Five million persons were out of work when the Republican Administration took office, he pointed out, at which time the government owed $24,000,000,000, of which $7,000,000,000 was in short-time obligations. The country was suffering from deflation. Banks were filled with collateral and security which they could not liquidate and interest was high. Foreign relations were chaotic. Liberty bonds were well below par.

FINANCES MANAGED WITH GENIUS

The Republican Administration, the President pointed out, has reduced the debt $2,750,000,000 in three years, which means an annual saving in interest alone of $120,000,000. It has cut the cost of maintaining the government $2,041,000,000 a year. It has reduced taxes a total of $6,000,000 a day. Liberty bonds have soared over par, one issue selling at 105.

"The finances of this nation have been managed," the President declared emphatically, "with a genius and a success unmatched since the days of Hamilton."

This was Mr. Coolidge's tribute to Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

"Complaint of unemployment has ceased," he said. "Wages have increased. Capital has become plentiful as a low rate of interest, and the banks of our country, as a whole, show a high percentage of liquid assets."

Mr. Coolidge dwelt at some length on the promises of both the Democratic and La Follette parties, though he mentioned neither by name, to reduce the tariff.

"But for the enormous buying power which the high wages of industry put behind the market for American food products," he said, "especially meat, the agricultural regions would have experienced even a far more severe financial crisis.

"Were such protection removed," he said, after discussing the Republican policy of building up the home market by protecting it by tariff schedules from foreign competition, "the result would be felt at every fireside in the land.

"Our industry would languish, factories would close, commerce and transportation would be stagnant, agriculture would become paralysed, financial distress and economic depression would reach over the whole country. Before we are carried away with any visionary expectation of promoting the public welfare by a general avalanche of cheap goods from foreign sources, imported under a system which, whatever it may be called, is in reality free trade, it will be well first to count the cost and realise just what such a proposal really means."

15 LAWS PASSED TO AID FARMERS

The President then spoke of the elastic provisions of the tariff law which give the Executive discretion.

"I propose to administer them," he said, "not politically, but judicially. As the business of the world becomes stabilised, without throwing all our economic system into confusion, we can raise or lower specific schedules to meet the requirements of a scientific adjustment."

Reviewing the aid which the Government had extended to agriculture, during the period of deflation in which it will hard hit, the President pointed out that fifteen laws had been passed. He mentioned the $300,000,000 of credit which the War Finance Corporation had extended, the $15,000,000 from private sources for the relief of the cattle industry, and the $86,000,000 loaned by the Intermediate Credit banks.

"But the fundamental remedy was provided," he pointed out, "as it always must be provided, not so much through the enactment of legislative laws as through the working out of economic laws. Because the farmers have thoroughly realised this they have on the whole opposed price fixing legislation."

MAIN PROBLEM IS MARKETING

The President then pointed out that there was still need for more organisation, co-operation and diversification. The government should aid by providing for flood control and development of inland waterways, especially east and south from the Great Lakes, reclamation, and especially relief for those who cannot meet their payments on irrigation projects.

"But the main problem is market-ing," he said. "Co-operative effort, reorganisation of the freight rate structure, good business and good wages in manufacturing and the settlement of European affairs will all help to provide better market conditions."

Hope that agriculture could be kept on a basis of economic equality with other industries was expressed by the President. He announced that he would appoint a commission, which would study the situation and report to Congress when it convenes in December recommending measures "that may help secure this result which we all desire.

"I want profitable agriculture established permanently," he said. "I want to see the dollar of the farmer always purchase as much as any other dollar."

WORKING CONDITIONS IMPROVED

He referred with pride to the fact, among other improvements in wages and working conditions during the present administration, that the twelve hour day and the seven-day week have practically been abolished. He referred here to the successful efforts of the administration to induce the steel industry to substitute the three-shift system for the two.

Indorsing again the World Court idea, the President made his position clear on the League of Nations.

"We must necessarily proceed," he said, "upon the principle of present co-operation without further entaglements."

The Dawes plan, and the aid extended to Europe in this way, the President declared, was helping "in the only way we could."

TO CALL NEW ARMS CONFERENCE

He promised again that as soon as the Dawes plan was in operation he would approach the Powers with respect to another conference which might make further materal reductions in armaments and the expense they impose on the world's taxpayers.

The President paid high tribute to the Washington arms conference, to which the one he now promises would be a successor.

"It produced the one effective agreement among the great Powers in all the history of civilisation for relieving the people of the earth of the enormous burden of maintaining competitive naval armaments. I do not believe any naval conference ever did more to promote the peace of the world," he said.

Secretary of State Hughes, who returned from Europe today flushed with the success of aiding in the adoption of the Dawes plan, sat on the platform and listened to this and other high tributes paid him by the President, among them this:

"Our foreign relations have been handled with a technical skill and a broad statesmanship which has seldom, if ever, been surpassed."

The President turned and bowed to Secretary Hughes as he said this, whereupon there was an ovation for the distinguished New Yorker. Just a minute before this Mr. Hughes had shattered some popular illusions about himself by springing to the front of the platform during the demonstration which followed the introduction of the President and leading three rousing cheers for Coolidge.

REFERS TO JAPANESE EXCLUSION

Only one reference was made by the President to the many differences which have occurred between him and Congress. This one was as to Japanese exclusion, and his whole purpose here apparently was to say something which would soothe the feelings of the Japanese, at the same time making it clear that the policy of immigration restriction was a domestic one—"solely for the purpose of protecting ourselves."

"We cast no aspersions on any race or creed," he said, "but we must remember that every object of our institutions of society and government will fail unless America be kept American."

Enthusiasm broke out with the first mention by the President, concerning the solution of the reparation problem, of the name of General Charles G. Dawes.

The biggest surprise in the President's speech was his announcement that he had insisted upon a budget being imposed in the campaign to elect him.

Not only must the money to be spent by the Republicans be measured out, as it were, but the President declared also that he had insisted that there must be no deficit. No money may be borrowed. This easy method of defeating the purpose of the law requiring publicity for the names of the campaign contributors in advance of election day, he insisted, will not be permitted.

There was a spontaneous outburst of applause at the reference to the Ku-Klux Klan.

DECRIES RELIGIOUS PREJUDICE

"This is one country," he declared. "We are one people united by common interests. There should be no favorites and no outcasts; no race or religious prejudices in government."

Inside Continental Memorial Hall, which was packed to the utmost of its capacity, the enthusiasm throughout the speech was tremendous. Cheering for the President, which lasted seven minutes by the clock, at the outset of his speech, punctuated all the telling points as he proceeded with his address.

Frank Foster, of New Jersey, who says he is the organiser of the largest Coolidge and Dawes club in the country, was a self-appointed cheer leader, and proved effective. He sat in the front row, almost directly facing the President. At each statement which seemed to meet the audience's enthusiasm he would spring to his feet, facing Henry Roraback, the Connecticut leader, and give an imitation of an undergraduate directing the cheering at a college football game. Outside the hall there were big crowds listening to the amplifiers.

As a matter of fact, the President's voice over the radio, it seemed to those who listened first outside the hall and then in, was more emphatic, vigorous and enthusiasm provoking than the actual timbre of the voice as it was heard inside the auditorium.

All of which was encouraging to those managing the Coolidge campaign, who realise that the few speeches which will be made by the President in the campaign will be heard by more than 10,000 persons over the radio to every one who actually hears his voice without the aid of wireless and amplifiers.

Frank W. Mondell in his notification speech paid a tribute to the President, citing the confidence the people have in his honesty and courage.

"The American people know that this confidence is well deserved," he said. "It has the sound and substantial basis of your faith in American principles and institution. Our confidence in the will and capacity of the American people to solve all their problems in harmony with our constitutional scheme and plan of government."

AMERICAN PRINCESS SEES COWES REGATTA.

Prince Viggo, of Denmark, and his bride, formerly Miss Eleanor Green, New York society girl, are shown as they watched the boat races off the Isle of Wight. The Prince renounced all claim to the Danish throne to wed the young American beauty.
